Congressman Moses's Brother to Get the Carrollton Postmas'ership-Other Washington Co.sip.

Washington, June 4.—(Special.)—The report is in circulation here tonight that Mr. Cleveland will make it known officially tomorrow as to the exact time when he proposes calling congress together.

Speculation is rife as to the exact date. Mr. Cleveland said, before leaving, that he would not call an extra session before October. Several senators, who claimed to be posted indirectly from Hog Island, rlier date; that, in the silence of Mr. Cleveland has thought the matter ever and decided that he and Car-lisle alone are not sufficient for the emergency, and that he will call the country's representatives to settle the problem. The German Ambassador.

Baron von Saurnica Jeltsch, the first erman ambassador to the United States, is about fifty-four years of age, and has years, having been attached to most of the European courts as secretary of legation. In 1880, he was consul general and diplomatic agent at Egypt. Then, Baron Jeltsch has represented his govern-ment as minister to Bucharest and The Hague, and for the past two years as the royal Pressian minister at Stuttgart. This was a most important post, as the minister there has to communicate to the authorities the condition of international affairs between Russia and Wurtemberg. Dr. von Holleben, the present German minister to the United States, will be sent to Stuttgart to replace Baron Jeltsch, and will leave for his new post the latter part of July. Dr. von Holleben was not far enough adranced in service to be honored by an ambassadorship, there being several ahead ambassador, who stands high among the seniors in Germanyls diplomatic ranks The German legation here has received only telegraphic advices regarding the appointment late last month

Of Interest to Millers. The department of agriculture is informed that the exhibit of milled products to be held at Mainz, Germany, in August next, is a matter that will be of great interes to millers in this country. It is expected to bring together thousands of bakers from all parts of Germany and continental Europe. At the same time, the national association of bakers will meet there, of which three-fourths of the bakers in Germany are members, and Switzerland, Holland and Austria will be represented. An excellent opportunity will be afforded American cereals, in view of the recent modification by Germany of the discriminating tariff imposed upon milled as com-pared with unmilled products, which was an almost effectual barrier to the introduction of American flour materials, etc., into that country. The duty is now the same on cereals, whether milled or unmilled: and this duty is considerably less than that levied on Russian cereals. Before the reduction was made, the tariff was about three times as great as it is at present.

WHY THE FMERICANS FAIL

Who Go to Italy for Their Musical Traini g.

Washington, June 4.-Mr. George W Pepper, United States consul at Milan, Itary, has made an interesting report on the difficulties encountered by American musical students in Italy. Mr. Pepper says that the great majority of young students go to Milan to "finish off" return to who go to Milan to "finish off" return to tacir homes in a few years without having received much benefit and disillusioned to the merits of Italian masters, and he proceeds to give some advice as to how this disappointing result may be prevented. The reaction of a teacher, he says, is one of the host difficult problems which confronts the new arrival. Now, that the two most famus—San Giovanni and Lamperti—are dead, there remains 150 others, more or cess celebrated, frem which to choose. Found when the difficulty are here concanned with a difficulty, a social efiquette, which forbids their taking a lesson unless a ted with a difficulty, a social etiquette, th forbids their taking a lesson unless a diperson be present, condemns their aptance in public. Wrong ideas in regard to the cheapness of fiving in italy is also another reason for the failure of students, many of whom think that board can be had so cheaply that they bring insufficient funds. This, says Mr. Pepper, is one of the primary causes of final discouragement and failure. No one

Mr. Pepper, is one of the primary causes of final discouragement and tallare. No one can live comfortably in Milan for less than $00 per month, including lessons, and yet the majority come with an income of much less. Many hope to enter the royal conservatory, where tuition is very low, but few Americans succeed in doing so, as the conditions for entering are very strict. No one over twenty-two years of age is accepted, or who has not some knowledge of the Italian language. Out of 100 American singers now residing in Milan, not one has succeeded in entering this year. The majority of Americans have been in Milan for more than a year, a number for more than five years. Where Blackened Corpses Are Now Being Brought Up.

THE PRESIDENT'S RETU'N

From His Trip to Hog Island—His Health Is Fine.

Washington, June 4.—President Cleveland refurned to Washington at 7:40 o'clock this morning from his short fishing trip at Cape Charles, Va., and was met at the station by Private Secretary Thurber, with the president's carriage, and the two men were driven to the white house. Mr. L. Clark Davis Cid not accompany the president to Washington. Very few people were at the station at this hour, as the lane of the arrival of the president's car, attached to train No. 41 from Washington, was much earlier than the public expected. 9 o'clock being the regular schedule time. The president is a fight seat a telegram to Mr. Thurber informing him when he would arrive. The run from Exmore to Washington was made quickly. Mr. Cleveland stayed at the white house half an hour. He then called for his carriage and was driven to "Woodley." his summer villa in the suburbs of Washington, where he had breakfast with Mrs. Cleveland. Mr. Cleveland is now a borry find the brief results from business has had the effect of refreshing him both mentally and physically. He has had good sport and is much pleased with his irip.

A CASE IN POINT

Showing That the Chinese Exclusion Act
May Have a Wider Scope.

Washington, June 4.—The decision of the supreme court upon the Chinese exclusion act recently delivered may possibly have a net recently delivered may possibly have a much wider scope and affect a greater variety of persons than was probably foreseen by the associate justices who joined with Mr. Gray in declaring it to be the law of the land. The volume of "foreign relations" for 1832, just published by the state department, contains a case in point.

Leon Spitzer, born at Vienna, Austria, Jangary 1837, emigrated to the United States

Leon Spitzer, born at Vielna, Assault ary, 1867, emigrated to the United States February, 1882, was naturalized in New York 1889, and returned to Europe November, 1889, and to Vienna July, 1890. In an affidavit Mr. Spitzer declared that his residence was in New York, where he was a "mann-facturer," and that he intended to "return to the United States within two years with the purpose of residing and performing the citizenship, therein."

the purpose of residing and performing the citizenship therein."

In March, 1892, Spitzer was notified by the authorities of Vienna that he had been expelled from Austra under a law of 1871. He appealed to Minister Grant, who brought the case to the attention of Count Kalnoki, prime minister, testifying that this treatment of Spitzer was in violation of the treaty of 1870 between Anstria-Hungary and the United States, guaranteeing certain rights and protection to the citizen of the respective countries, Replying to Mr. Grant's compilant in behalf of Spitzer, Count Welzerscheimb, for the minister of foreign affairs, said that Spitzer's emigration to the United States was manifestly for the purpose of evading the military duty of the Austrian government; that the expulsion of such individuals is based upon considerations of public order; and that "every state has a right to, expel foreigners from its territory for reasons above stated and that reasons existing can be bigged only by the international point in view." view."

This sentence accords with the view of Mr.

Justice Gray and the language is quite similar.

lar.

Minister Grant notified Count Kalnoki that this government could not accept that interpretation of, the treaty, a position in which he was supported by Scerctary Foster, who, in a dispatch dated July 23, 1802, said, after stating that the United States would entertain a proposition for a modification of the treaty remains in force, the United States government will insist upoh a strict compliance with its laws; and after a careful examination of the case in point, it is reluctantly obliged to dissent, from the views expressed by the Austrian-Hungarian government.

"As Spitzer was expelled on the vague and indefinite grounds of the interests of public order," and as no valid and explicit reason in support of the order is alleged, your action in making a formal protest is approved by the department."

This ended the correspondence so far made public, and as Spitzer's departure for the United States was inlimated in one of Minister Grant's letters, it probably closed the incident.

In view, however, of the apparent inconsistency between the views of the executive and indical branches of the government as disclosed by this correspondence and the decision on the Geary law, the attitude of the government upon the next case of alleged violation of treaty rights by a European government will be watched with interest.

SHE ATTENDED MASS. Minister Grant notified Count Kalnoki that

New York, June 4.—The Infanta Eulalie passed Sunday entirely in accordance with her own desires, independent of the official passed Sunday entirely in accordance with her own desires, independent of the official programme. Some of the party went to mass in the forenoon, received a committee from the Circulo Colon Cervantes and went on a private excursion on the Dolphin. The princess entered her carriage at 11 o'clock, and accompanied by the prince, the marchioness, the duke of Tamames, Commander Davis and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. O'Donohue, the party drove to St. Francis Xavier church in West Sixteenth street and entered between two lines formed by two companies of the St. Francis Xavier Cadets from the preparatory class of the college. A private low mass was said in the chapel of the college. The very leverend Thomas J. Campbell, provincial of the Holy Order, was celebrante.

After returning to the hotel the princess breakfasted and then, at her request, about twenty children, whom she had-noticed about the halls of the hotel, were presented to her. The princess received a committee from the Circulo Colon Cervantes, the society which gave the ball in her honor at Madlson Square Garden.

The Juan Nevarra, the president of the so-

Garden. Nevarra, the president of the so-clety, presented her with a memorial of the hall in the shape of an allum bound with white kid and lined with white moire silk. The princess remained in the hotel this evening. She will leave by special train over the Pensylvania road at 12:30 o'clock p. m. tomorrow and go through to Chicago without stop except to change engines at necessary points.

Fishermen in Mass Meeting.

New Westminster, B.-C., June 4.—A monster meeting of the Fishermen's Association is here to discuss the wholesale naturalization of Japanese and Chinese for the purpose of getting fishing licenses. Several speeches were made. It was pointed out that the fishermen were gradually being crowded out by the Japanese and Chinese. There are thirty-one cannerles on the Frazier river, and atthough the biggest packing record is expected to be made this season, not one white insherman has been employed so far by the canneries. The Japanese and Chinamen are taking their places. The native Indians are also being supplicated by the Japanese. Itesolutions were passed asking the dominion government to refuse to grant fleeness to Japanese and Chinese and to issue the same only to whites and Indians. The meeting was entitusiastic. Public sentiment is strongly with the fishermen.

THE DISASTER AT FUENT COAL MINE,

FUTILE EFFORTS TO SAVE LIFE.

Heartrending Scenes at the Pit's Mouth Where Relatives of the Unfortu-

Galveston, June 4.-An Eagle Pass sp cial to The News says: Full particulars of the Fuent coal mine disaster, as nearly as can be learned, are as follows: The Mexican International railway, which recently came into possession of the mines; is operating a narrow-gauge road with a small engir. which penetrates the main entry, hauling in empty and bringing out loaded ears. This main entry is lined the top and on the sides with creosoted lumber. and there are three air shafts, from which to supply the mines with ventilation. The entrance of the track is on the north side of a range of hills, through which it passes down an incline to the muth of a tunnel on the banks of the Rio Escoudido river. The works are all to the east of the main entry, and some fifty men were ployed taking our coal.

At 4 o'circk yesterday, shortly after the engine left the mine, it was discovered to be on fire, and smoke and flames were seen issuing from the air shafts. About one half of the miners were working near the main tunnel, and these made their escape, leaving twenty-six of their number to perish from the heat and smoke, and from the poisonous gasses which spread like lightning to every portion of the mines. Pumping Water Into the Mine.

When it was seen that all efforts were useless to rescue the imprisoned miners, every energy was directed to save the property from destruction. A hand pump was placed in position on the Escondido river, and pipes were laid into the mine as far as any work could be done, the hose attached and water poured into the burning timbers. A portable engine was speedliy obtained and the Ire subdued somewhat. There are twenty-four chambers in the There are twenty-four chambers in the mines, and the dead miners are supposed to be to the front of the mine. At 12 o'clock today one body had been recovered from the seventh chamber, and shortly after another, fearfully scorched and blackened, was brought to the surface. The tenth chamber can be reached, and men with ropes tied to their bodies, to effect their rescue if overcome by the snoke, are feeling ropes tied to their bodies, to effect their rescue if overcome by the smoke, are feeling their way to the spot where the bodies of their dead comrades are lying. Superintendent George Spence, ventured in too far, and was overcome by heat and smoke. He was prostrated, but was rescued. It is believed that by tomorrow the mine will be cleared of the heat and smoke, which at the bodies will be recovered.

All Were Mexicans.

All the miners employed were Mexicans, and most of them have been left destitute It is reported that all the parties respon-It is reported that all the parties responsible for the management of the mines, have been put under arrest pending an investigation of the cause of the disaster. But for the prompt action of the officials of the Mexican International, and their heroic efforts, the mine would have been destroyed and none of the bodies would have been recovered.

This is the first disaster in the history of coal mining in Mexico. Large numbers of the friends and relatives of the unfortunate miners, are gathered at the mouth of nate miners, are gathered at the mouth o nate miners, are gathered at the mouth of the mine, mutely awaiting the recovery of the bodies of their sons and husbands. When a body is taken out, there is no outburst of grief, but a look of quief resignation and deep grief appears on each countenance. Hundreds of people from Eagle Pass and Pedras Negras have visited the scene to-day, and the smoke is still issuing from the shafts, impressing on all the folly of hoping that any of the imprisoned miners are yet alive.

STRUCK BY A CYCLONE.

Terrible Havoc in a Texas Town-Several Persons Killed.

Houston, Tex., June 4 .- Spanish Camp, in Wharton county, about twenty miles from the railroad, was struck by a terrific cyclone on Friday night. Numbers of houses were unroofed and destroyed. In the village Josh Wilkins's house was blown down and two of his children killed. For three miles square everything is wreck and ruin, timber, houses and trees being strewn all about.

Three miles from town Mindego Simmons was killed and Wash Jenkins, a darky over was killed and Wash Jehkins, a darky over a hundred years old, was caught beneath the ruins of his cabin and crushed to death. All the residences and outhouses on the Montgomery plantation were blown away and several persons hurt, but no one kill-ed. On G. C. Duncan's farm the houses was unroofed and two families of colored tenants were badly injured, two fatally.

Is the Property of the Carnegle Companies at Johnson City.

Johnson City. Tenn., June 4.—(Special.)—The Carnegle Iron Company, of Johnson City, on account of the financial situation, the inability to make collections and the lack of assistance from non-resident stockholders, have been forced into a temporary assignment to protect the property and their creditors. The financial pressure has been so great that the bonds of the company could not be sold nor the amount due them could not be sold nor the amount due them could not be collected. General Wilder, who owns one-third of the stock of both companies, has stood manfully by them and backed them up to the extent of about fifty-five thousand dollars, while all the other stockholders, holding two-thirds of the stock, have only furnished about eighteen thousand dollars. Arrangements had been made to sell the bonds on the furnace in New York, but the recent stringency of the money market was so great that the prospective purchasers could not spare the means to take up the bonds at present. They, however, assure the companies that they will take the bonds later in the season and pay off all the indebtedness.

The property consists of a large, new blast furnace, a hotel, lands and town lots and notes to the amount of over six hundred thousand dollars, while the total indebtedness, it is claimed, does not exceed $125,000, most of which is not due. There is not of this amount more than $25,000 due to people in the south, the rest being owed to persons north and east.

The delay in completing the Three Cs ralirond was the prime cause of all the trouble General Wilder says the entire embarrassment will be straightened out and everybody pald within this year. J. W. It is confidently expected that the property will be taken out of the assignce's hands by the middle of October, if not carrier. WILL RESIDE IN RICHMOND.

Mrs. Davis Desires to Live Near the Grave

Richmond, Va., June 4 .- (Special.)-Mrs. Jefferson Davis and her daughter, Miss Winnie, will, it is now pretty well settled, make their home in Richmond, after a few months. It has been an open secret ever since she selected this city as the final rest-ing place of her illustrious husband that it was her wish to again become a resident of Virginia's capital, where, during her residence of nearly four years, while the war was in progress, she formed many strong at-tachments and was the recipient of universal kindness. While here last week Mrs. Davis talked this matter over with some of her friends, and to them she said that it would be more agreeable to both her and Miss Winnie to become residents of Richmond. Before leaving for New York yesterday she is said to have requested a gentleman to look ground and try to secure a suitable house for her. It is understood that her son-in-law, Mr. Hayes, who is a wealthy banker, will purchase the home for Mrs. Davis, and that if suitable arrangements can be made by that time she and the daughter of the confederacy will move to this city in De-cember next. The first lady of the southern land has always been attached to Richmond and with all that is mortal of her distinguished husband and four of her children, buried in Hollywood, this attachment becomes doubly strong. Mrs. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Hayes and Miss Winnie Davis drove out to the cemetery yesterday morning un-attended and paid a farewell visit to the section which holds so much that is dear to them. They were delighted with the beau-tiful manner in which the lot has been

Berlin, June 4.—William Walter Phelps, the retired United States minister, presented at the castle this noon his letter of recall. Immediately afterwards Freiherr Marschall Von Bieberstein, minister of foreign affairs, introduced to the emperor Theodore Runyan, the United States minister. Mr. Runyan wore the uniform of a general. He said:

"I have the honor to hand your majesty President Cleveland's letter announcing my appointment. In presenting my credentials it gives me great pleasure to refer to the excelent understanding which now happily has so long existed between the governments of the United States and Germany. I hope to be instrumental in strengthening and making permanent these friendly relations and to extend the commercial interests between the two countries. My earnest wish is for your majesty's welfare and for the continued prosperity of the great German nation."

In reply the emperor said that he recognized the countries of the relations of the Credentials.

was pleased to receive such a conspicuous American citizen as Mr. Runyan. He had always felt gratified to know that Germans who emigrated to America made good and loyal citizens. He wished that Mr. Runyan's sojourn in Berlin might be pleasant in every connect. Afterwards the emperor and Mr. Runyan conversed privately on American topics for afteen minutes.

New York, June 4 -Dr. Edwin C. Boller preached today on the Briggs trial to a large congregation at the Charch of the Eterlarge congregation at the Charch of the Eternal Hope. The subject of the pastor's discourse was: "How Heresy Trials Appear to a Liberal." He began by stating that he did not propose to abuse the Presbyterian church for their action was logical, and from their point of view right. "The teeth of persecution have been drawn by time; in olden days Dr. Briggs might have seen the way to the scaffold or the prison.

resion," he continued. "seemed to candid people just as the presbytery had decided it. Yet Dr. Briggs was perfectly right. The only trouble was that Dr. Briggs was the right man in the wrong place. He can regard his condemnation as every man who has been ahead of his time could have done, as a compliment. as a compliment, although perhaps an em barrassing one. In the first place, the whole matter may be regarded as a great waste of matter may be regarded as a great waste of time, energy and enthusiasm. There is something better for the church to do rather than trying to settle points which will not be settled and entering a debate which is only wearying and endless. The only reason for the existence of the church Bible or creed at all is to make men better and a heresy trial makes them forget the spirit of God and neglect the golden rule about their duty to their fellowmen."

ENGINEER GERMANY'S FUNERAL. Nine Divisions of Locomotive Engineers in the Procession. Columbia, S. C., June 4.-(Special.)-An immense crowd, many of whom were from other states, today attended the funeral services of Engineer W. J. Germany, who was killed in the wreck near Ridgeway last Friday. Nine dicisions of the Order of Locomotive Engineers were represented in the procession as follows: Danville, Alexandria, Portsmouth, Manchester, Char-lotte, Raleigh, Asheville, Florence and Charleston. Representatives of the Order of Railway Conductors were there from Wilmington, Charlotte, Columbia and Wilmington, Charlotte, Columbia and Charleston. There were 200 engineers, sev-enty-five conductors, a large number of enty-five conductors, a large number of firemen and express messengers and the entire Richmond and Danville shop force from this city. The pallbearers were Superintendent V. E. McBeé, Master Mechanic J. H. Green and Master of Trains H. A. Williams, of the Richmond and Danville; Judge A. C. Haskell, J. L. Anderson, W. W. HE INJECTED MORPHINE IN HIS ARM.

The Women Was Found Dead on s Lounge and the Doctor Sitting in a Chair, Dead.

New York, June 4.-Another account of the death of Mrs. Colton and suicide of Dr. Eldkerken is given in a special from Chautauqua-today, which says: Mrs. O. C. Colton, a married woman thirty-five years old, went to the office of Dr. W. W. Eld-kerken, which was in the cottage of Mrs. Harwood. It was about 6:30 o'clock. Mrs. Harwood had left the house on an errand. When she returned, at about 6 o'clock, she says she heard heavy breathing from the doctor's room. She went to the door and found no light, and could get no reply. On going into the room, she found the dead body of the woman on the lounge and the doctor was unconscious in a chair. A tele phone message was sent to Mayville for medical aid, but Eldkerken was dead before it arrived. He left a written statement, saying that he had performed a criminal operation upon Mrs. Colton, which resulted in death from shock and heart failure. He felt that he could not endure the consequences, and had administered a hypodermic dose of morphine. The husband of Mrs. Colton was absent in Garland, Pa., where they formerly lived. Eldkerken was about forty years of age, and has a wife and child living in Cleveland, O., with whom he had not been living for some time. Coroner Van Dusen was called this everling and held an autopsy, which proved the truth of the doctor's statement regarding the woman's death.

THE HOLE IN THE COIN Was the Clue Which Fastened a Crime or Carriero.

Fall River, Mass., June 4.—Joseph, or Jose, Carriero, suspected of the horrible murder of Bertha May Manchester, is under arrest in the central police station charged with homicide. That he really committed the murder there appears to be lit-tle room to doubt, in view of the developments made in the investigation, which ended after 4 o'clock this morning. Jose Carriero gave himself up to the police last evening, and from 7:40 o'clock until after midnight, he was on the rack. At first his story was a good one, but one little-break was made and then came a change. Contradiction and falsehood followed and he was ordered under arrest. After the investigation closed the mayor and officers of the police department decided that the public had a right to the facts in possession of the police so far as they could safely be given. To this end a statement was read in the marshal's office, which recited that on the day of the murder Carriero entered a French Canadian shoe dealer's store, near the south end of Sagamore mill, and asked in broken English for a pair of shoes. He pulled out of his pocket a silver trade arently new He also dollar, bright and apparently new. He also pulled out from his pocket a silver half dollar with a hole in it. During the investigation Carriero denied he had ever offered a silver half dollar with a hole in it to the shoe dealer, but a Portuguese, who acted as in-terpreter with the storekeeper, stated positively that he had. The shoe dealer said that Carriero had what appeared to be a lady's pocket book with a clasp on it, and that he took money from it. Her pocket book was taken from Bertha's room.

SUICIDES IN PHILADELPHIA.

Three Successful Jobs-Several Attempts

Fail. Philadelphia, June 4.—This city seems to be having an epidemic of suicides. Three successful and one unsuccessful attempt were reported to the coroner today. One of were reported to the coroner today. One of the former, that of Adam Comfort, was one of the sensational order. Comfort, who is an Inmate of the state pententiary, was only nineteen years old. He came from Myersville, Snyder county, Pennsylvania, and was serving a three-year sentence for an attempt to kill. Yesterday he deliberately laid his head on the ground in front of a loaded cart which was passing through the prison and the wheel passing over his neck fractured the vertebra. Johnson City, Tenn., June 4.—(Special.)
Mrs. Melvina Carrell shot and fatally wounded Goodin Jenkins in East Carnegie about 1 o'clock. Jenkins went to the house under the influence of liquor and began to abuse Mrs. Carrell when she seized a pistol and shot him. The ball entered the right side just below the ribs and ranged downward into the bowels. Mrs. Carrell is about thirty years old; has two children, and is a woman of easy virtue. She was promptly arrested and will be held to await the result of Jenkins's injuries. No one was present and the woman claims self-defense.

Jenkins is unconscious and will die. The weapon was an American Bulldog 38 caliber.

They Mobbed Him. San Luis Potosi, Mex., June 4.—Vicente Palicios, first political auxiliary in Si'ao dur-ing the late General Manuel Gonzales's governorship of the state of Guanajato, has been discharged by the new governor, and while he was in the act of leaving Sitao for the City of Mexico a mob of citizens made an assault upon him and he only escaped serious injury by the train pulling out of the station. The mob then proceeded to the eigrant residence of the late General Gonzales, which they stoned.

WILL BE EXECUTED TOMORROW.

Parallo.

Danpemora, N. Y., June 4.—Siramon Martelo, who has been confined in Clinton prisons since November 22, 1892, awaiting the execution of his death sentence for the brutal murder of a fellow countryman named Parallo, will be executed at noon Tuesday. Parallo's murder, which occurred on the street as Saratoga on May 5, 1892, was the result of jealousy in connection with Martelo's mistress and was a horrifying act, in which Parallo's throat was cut. Martelo has become nervous as the time for his death approaches, but otherwise he is in good health. Up to a week ago last Friday he had been feigning insanity, but he stopped that after an examination. Not a friend has ever visited Martelo since he came here and he has been alone in his confinement. He is unusually illiterate, being mable even to read or write his native language. A test of the death dealing apparatus has been made and was found to work satisfactorily. This will be the third execution to take place at Clinton prison under the new law and the fifteents since the law went into effect.

Clubs and knives were used and both victims were badly wounded. Wong and Lunwere suspected of giving information to the police which hed to a raid on an opium den. The highbinders escaped.

FIVE CHARRED CORPSES,

Taken from the Flat Which Burned Saturday

New York, June 4.—Lying in an undertaking

Night.

New York, June 4.—Lying in an undertaking establishment in East Twenty-eighth street, burned and blackened are the persons who perished in the fire last night in the flat house 133 East Thirty-second street. Without exception the bodies are burned beyond recognition. The charred remains are those of Whilam Bente, twenty-five years old, stenographer; Louise Bente, twenty-five years old, his wife; Elsie Bente, twenty-five years old, his sister; Helen Wetmore Dietz, seven years old, his sister; Helen Wetmore Dietz, seven years old, a nlece of Mrs. Bente; Henry Pugsley, thirty-five years old, who occupied a nall room in the Bente fiat.

Four-of the persons who were killed, an investigation showed, were burned in their beds, having been overcome by the suffocating smoke before they were awakened to realize their danger. Mr. and Mrs. Bente were in their bed, and Miss Elsie Bente and Helen Dietz were in the room adjoining where they had slept together. Henry Pugsley alone had been aroused. He had opened his door, evidently to make his way to the roof, when haw as overcome by the smoke and was stricken down in his tracks. He was found where he had fallen, on the threshold of his apartment. His body was only slightly burned.

It is generally believed that the fire was caused by hot ashes which had been sent down in the Gumb watter. The watter was of wood, as was also the shaft. The fire evidently started somewhere between the third and four h floors, the flames and smoke going with great rapidity to the fifth floor, where the Bentes lived.

Mrs. Charles H. B. Jerlwall was the first to discover the danger. Shortly before 12 o'clock she opened a window of the bathroom, which looked into the air shaft on the fourth floor, and was overcome by the smoke. She screamed "fifteen-year-old sister, Mr. and Mrs. Dangan and her children on the first floor escaped without much difficulty.

NOI MUCH Of A CEOWD.

NOT MUCH OF A GROWD.

Yesterday at the World's Fair-Several State Exhibits Closed.

Chicago, June 4.—There was no great outpouring of the wageworking class, or any other class, at the exposition today. The oppressive heat and a severe storm of lightning, thunder and rain, which came in the middle of the afternoon, accounted in part for the decreased attradance. But compared with the mighty multitude of visitors last Sunday, the second open Sunday at the world's fair can hardly be called a success, judged by the standard of popular approval and the presence of men who hammer and say and dig and forge on the six days of the week. for whose benealt and edification in particular the world's fair gates are open. The spacious cafes with their broad verandas, the beer gardens in the foreign villages on the plaisance and the restaurants within the park proper were generally patronized, all day, not so much on account of the storm, for the sky was clear of rain clouds until o'clock, and there was no necessity for people to seek shelter. In fact the storm was of short duration, although black clouds hong over the White City for the rest of the day, threatening at any time to give the pedestrians a drenching.

BRIDGE AND SEWERS

Are the Things Macon Is Talking About

AN ELECTION TO BE HELD SHORTLY

To Determine Whether Bonds Shall Be Issued for Their Construction-General Macon News.

Macon, Ga., June 4 .- (Special.)-Bridge or no bridge? Sewers, or no sewers? These two question the people of this community will be called upon to decide at an election to be held at a near date. On the first proposition the people of the entire county proposition the people of the entire county of Bibb will be privileged to vote. On the second proposition, only the people of the city of Macon can vote. To build a bridge over the Oemulgee river, it is proposed to issue about $35.000 of bonds by the county. To construct sewers in Macon, it is proposed to issue about $200,000 of bonds by the city. When the propositions were first suggested, the specially enthused advocates of the two projects thought there would be practically no opposition to the would be practically no opposition to the two enterprises. Opposition is developing every day, and a strong fight will be made every day, and a strong fight will be made at the polls, and the result of the contest is uncertain 'The intensely interested advocates are about evenly divided. The decision will have to be made by the great mass of voters who are indifferent as to the result of the election. If 'bridge' wins it will not be because the public recognizes that there is any great need for it, or rich benefit to be derived by the people at large, but because they do not care to appear as if opposing a public enterprise, which may, indeed, possess great powers for developing the material interests of the county. It is a question whether or not the bridge will increase, to any considerable extent the substantial growth of Macon and Bibb county, but there is a contingent of the population wining to give the benefit of the doubt to the bridge. Yet there are many who will solo to the for the bridge because they believe there is no public necessity for it, that a few will derive great benefit at the expense of the many, and that the money can be spent otherwise to better advantage. at the polls, and the result of the contest ment otherwise to better advantage.

About sewers.

Macon needs sewers. As an original proposition, the people of the city are in favor of sewers. Macon needs a system of mnitary sewers, because she has none. Naturally the city is healthy and the sur face dramage good, but so great has been Macon's increase of population and multi-plication of houses, that nature must not alone be depended on for health and sewerage. Man must come to the rescue. Yet it cannot be truthfully denied that opposition is arising to the issuance of $200,000 of bonds under the ordinance recently passed by the city council, and which provides, among other things, that which provides, among other things, that an election to determine the issuance of bonds shall be held on June 21st. Some of the points of objections advanced by the opposition are, briefly stated, as fol-

That Macon should first possess and control a system of waterworks of her own, and not be dependent on a private corporation to furnish sufficient water sup-dy to flush sewers. If Macon intends to to hash sewers. It know intends to buy the present waterworks, she ought to do so before sewers are constructed, for sewers would be valuable patronage for the waterworks, and would necessarily cause the company to estimate an increased value to its plant.

That an expert should be engaged to make a survey of the city and estimate the cost of a system of sanitary sewerage. No such estimate has been made, and it is not known whether sewers will cost $100,000, $200,000 or $500,000. To vote blindly for $200,000 would be a leap in the dark, the emposition says.

prosition says.

That there should be a sewer commission composed of the mayor and a certain number of aldermen, and a certain number of citizens. The sewers should be built under the direction and supervision of the commission, which should receive and expend the money. The city treasurer should be the treasurer of the commission, and should be required to give a special bond for the sewer funds.

Dond for the sewer funds.

That, under the terms of the city sharter. Macon cannot issue bonds except legislative enactment.

"That the sinking fund provision of the adjunction of the sufficient of the sufficie ordinance is extravagant, unbusinesslike and unfinancial.

The foregoing are some of the objections treed by the opposition to the sewer bond brdinance under which the election is called for June 21st. They have other objections, at it is not necessary to mention then

The first gun for the opposition has been tred by ex-Mayor W. A. Huff. The battle will, no doubt, now be kept warm all along the line until the election.

It will require a two-thirds vote of the lt will require a two-turres vote of the last general city election to insure the success of the bonds on the 21st instant.

About 1.600 or 1.700 votes will make the necessary two-thirds. In the last general city election, about 2.500 votes were cast.

APPRECIATIVE CONGREGATIONS EDIFIED

And Instructed by Able Expounders o the Gospel of Christ-Pulpit Echoes.

At the Central Presbyterian church yesterday morning Dr. G. B. Strickler preached a sermon which, in ability and eloquence, exceeded even his own high standard, from Jeremiah xivili-11, "Moab hath been at ease from his youth, and he hath settled on his lees, and hath not been emptled from vessel to vessel, neither hath he gone into captivity; therefore his taste remained in him and his scent is not changed." He said:

The imagery of the text is derived from the process of wine making, which is familiar to all. In it the prophet means to describe the uneventful stagnant life of the Moabites, and call attention to its inevitable results. At the Central Presbyterian church yester-

The imagery of the text is derived from the process of wine making, which is familiar to all. In it the prophet means to describe the uneventful stagnant life of the Moabites, and call attention to its inevitable results. He teaches that such a nation will not advance or grow better, while one that is being continually agitated over important events, and has to struggle for its existence will rise and improve. A very slight acquaintance with history shows the truth or this statement; it furnishes many notable instances of it, the best known being China, on the one hand, and England and this country on the other. The text principally applies, however, to the church, of which it has especially been true. When it has had to contend for its existence, has had to struggle with foes on every side, then it has been the most awake to its duties, the most successful in performing them. But when it has been at ease, with the powers of the world on its side, then it has been most stagnant and degraded.

I propose now, however, to call attention to this truth as it applied to individual Christians, to why it is for their good, that by divine providence they are not suffered to rest, but by changes in station, destruction of hopes, loss of friends and other afflictions they are continually disturbed and harassed. It is true for several reasons. First, it is necessary to let them know what they really are. If they are true Christians it brings out their faith, if not, it shows their failings and gives opportunity to correct them. Second, it is necessary to solve the true value of worldly possessions. This it is natural to overestimate, till by the loss of the things we have most valued, we are shown their worthlessness. Third, it is necessary for the development of, character. Character is not a clothing to be put on from without, but a growth resulting from our own exertions. The man who staffaates never improves, it is the man who suffers and by his suffering is led to higher things. Suffering is necessary to the perfectio

Dr Kendall preached a very impressive sermon yesterday morning to a large and attentive congregation. He selected as a text Acts 16:9, "And a vision appeared unto Paul in the night. There stood a man of Macedonia and prayed him, saying, "Come over into Nacedonia, and help us."

and prayed him, saying, Come of the Macedonia and help us."

The central thought of his discourse was God's sympathy for the unconscious needs of his creatures. The message which Paul received in this vision come from God, and not from the Macedonians. The people of Macedonia, were ignorant of their real condition, and tild not realize that they stood in need of selection. This is evidenced by the way salvation. This is evidence which they received Paul. in which they received Paul, Instead of being received with open arms and a cordin, welcome, he was beaten and persecuted during his stay in that country, and instead of appreciating his service and labors among them the majority of them were ungrateful and failed to heed the message brought to them by this mighty man of God. But God saw that this people had need of salvation, al-that this people had need of salvation, although they themselves were unconscious of this need. So, in His love and compassion for them, He sends the great apostic among them to give them the opportunity to hear the gospel of the son of God, and be saved from their sins.

We must not fail to do our duty for fear that our efforts will not be appreciated. Most of us are very ungrateful to God for His goodness to us. Yet he continues to shower His blessings upon us. So let us do all we can to spread the gospel and put forth our best efforts to help and save those about us.

The First Methodist. Dr. Robins preached on "Manhood and Womanhood." A true man or a true woman Womanhood." A true man or a true woman is the noblest of God's creatures. Man was intended to be higher than anything else that came from his Maker's hand. Here in the south is to be found the finest strains of man, and southern youths should make the best and noblest men in the world. The dash of the cavalier, the heart of the Huguenot, the sturdiness of the elect and the wit of the Irish are mingled and blended in the southern blood, producing the best race of mankind that the sun ever shone upon. The history of the past hundred years shows this to be true. The most gallant and the greatest leaders of our armies, the first statesmen, the brilliant lights of the pulpit, belonged to this race and were nurtured in this climate. Those who, are today directing the thought and life of our people are of this race. "I am proud of it," the pastor declared. 'The highest type of manhood is that which has the highest esteem and honor for woman. And if there is a man in my congregation today who would not lay down his life in defense of pure womanhood, he is not worthy to claim kinship to our people. Our women inspire confidence, honor and love, and God pity that country whose women lose the respect and undying trust of its men." The safeguard of this country is the honor paid to its women by the men. Nothing in human progress is impossible to our people. Consider what has been accomplished in twenty-five years! Less than a generation ago and this country was desolate. Its banks, its railroads, its business were paralyzed. Fields were unplanted and unfenced. The conditions were discouraging, but strong in hope our race began the upbuilding of our land, and now it blossoms and peace prevails. Our achievements in the past quarter of a century demonstrate that a true manhood and womanhood has been the great controlling and directing force." Womanhood." A true man or a true woman is the noblest of God's creatures. Man was strate that a true manhood and wemanhood has been the great controlling and directing force." At the Church of Our Father.

At the Church of Our Father Rev. W. R. Cole stoke of the good and the bad use we can make of our tongue, and how important it is to be aware of this fact, and we should, therefore, discipline our tongue and should always be impressed of the responsibility of its use. Of course we should always speak the truth and should always have the courage to say what we consister to be the truth, but we should also be very careful not to give for our opinion or judgment about persons, what we have not sufficiently meditated over. How often do we influe a person, without intention, perhaps, by slandering words, or by sarcastic expressions, or harsh unfriendly remarks. A great deal of wrong may also be done by not speaking out the truth when we know it. Great are the responsibilities, but also great is the good we are able to do with our tongue by friendly, consoling, uplifting words. At the Church of Our Father.

Second Baptist Church Those who compose the large congregation of the second Baptist church always know in advance the character of spiritual food they will receive from its pulpit, in the beauty and purity of the Christian gospel. Testerday's services were no exception to the rule. At the 11 o'clock service Dr. McDonald, the pastor, preached to the usual congregation on "Thinking About God." "Thinking About God."

1. The atheism of wickedness: God is not in all the thoughts of the wicked. Sin obscures the evidence of God's existence and nature, and in turn, the denial or ignorance of God intensifies wickedness. The denial of God's existence necessarily leads to the denial of moral government. The distinction of virtue and vice is a merc trifle. Such is the inevitable trend of all atheism, whether in the savinge or cultured man.

2. "It hought of God, and was troubled." No wonder that trouble fills the soul when sin has reigned. God is holy and just. The terrors of the guilty are natural and proper. The foot may mock at sin, but none but fools do.

3. "But God thinketh about me." More important, even, than my thoughts about God is the fact so graciously, revealed—God's thoughts about ourselves. God thinks upon me. His thoughts are in regard to each one, the individual arrests and secures the divine care in providence. His thoughts are of mercy to the penitent, of helpfulness to every one who seeks Him. How faith in such a being fills the soul and life with blessing!

In which class are you? In the thoughtless or thoughtful? Are your thoughts of God, the joy and blessing of your life, in sunshipe and storm, in life and death? Thrice blessed are they, and only they, who can thus rely on God. Trust him now and forever.

At the close of worship three united with the church by letter.

At Trinity Church. Dr. Lewis preached another great sermon. Subject, the fifth saying of the spirit to the churches. Text, Rev. 3; 5, 6—He that overcometh the same shall be clothed in white raiment and I will not blot his name out of the book of life, but I will confess his name before my Father and before His name before my rather and before his angel.

He that hath an ear let him bear what the spirit saith unto the churches.

Dr. Lewis said: He that hath gars let him hear this message. The church at Sardis was entangled with the world. The world was pressing hard; the ministers were not watchful. It was embarrassing to the Christians and many of them succumbed. But a few, notwithstanding the little help from their pastors, stood strong.

I do not know that your surroundings are similar except in general worldliness. When a child is born his name is put on the register. So is a foreigner who becomes a citizen of our country, and a man who joins the church has his name placed on the book. Unworthy names are eraced.

his name placed on the book. Unworthy names are eraced.

Our names are written in the book of life and shall be proclaimed from the bar of justice. The sea shall give up its dead; cemeterles their treasures. It will be a day when all will be judged. Many who ye received and accomplished much will find their name erased. Deliver us from such catasthrophe. Not so with all. Some He will acknowledge—those who stood firm. They He will not be ashamed of, but will confess before His Father and the angels and they will be robed in white. They did not object to the man at the feast on account of coarse clothes, but his dress was not in harmony with the occasion and he was put to confusion and hurled out.

I never saw a perfect man. Many have some of the Christian graces, but not a perfect life is known.

some of the Caristian graces, but not a perfect life is known.

After the sermon the sacrament was administered. At night a fine song service and a short sermon by the pastor. Trinity is doing fine work.

Merritt's Avenue Church The pulpit of the Little Church Around the Corner was filled yesterday in the absence of Dr. Hopkins, the pastor, who was called to Augusta by sickness in his family, by Rev. Samuel W. Small, who preached a most powerful, eloquent and inspiriting sermon.

Mr. Small delivered a beautiful and fervent prayer, full of unction and grace. His sermon was made on the first line of Proverbs xxix, 18: "Where there is no vision, people perish."

sermon was made on the first line of Proverbs xxix, 18: "Where there is no vision, people perish."

Mr. Small was very happy and enthusing. He was in his best mood. He has a wonderful fluency and vigor of felicitous diction, and preached yesterday to the best advantage and with his strongest power. He draws vivid word pictures, and used a deliberate vehemence that is impressive and stirring. He has a special faculty of holding attention and riveting interest. He is a very captivating pulpit orator and always preaches with effect.

He drew a striking analogy between physical and spiritual vision. The first needs light, the organ of slight, and the spirit to see. He paid a beautiful tribute to that deliy that fashioned this imperial endowment of the body's vision with all the beneficent results it carries. He elaborated forcibly that vision that is blind to the attraction of nature and art and the creations of genius, and can only see the sordid objects of gain and lucre.

Discussing then the mental and spiritual visions, he went on to show how all true spiritual sight came from our sweet Lord Jesus and the culture and inspirations of the Bible. Mr. Small was very felicitous and genuinely eloquent in this part of his strong sermon. And his portraiture of the deathful penalty of lacking this heavenly vision was powerful and intense.

Mr. Small made a practical application of his sermon to the liquor evil, and made a vigorous attack upon that element in our Christian churches who had no vision for the destructive harvests that the barrooms are everywhere reaping.

At the Cathelic Church.

At the Catholic Church. Father Kelley preached the sermon at high mass at the Catholic church yesterday. In the course of his sermon he took occasion to remark upon the manner Christ was received by the Jews.

"After all." said he, "we cannot blame the Jews, for they falled to see in Jesus Christ the attributes that they believed God should have. He came in the form of a helpless little child, fleeing from his enemies, hiding in the temple to escape persecution; all of this when he might have coiled to his aid myrlads of angels. Had he come as a king he could have had legions enlisted under his banner ready to fight for him whenever the occasion presented itself.

"It is very certain that people then recognized that there should be a development in religion. The manifestation of the coming religion. The manifestation of the coming development became clearer and clearer, ustill Christ appeared God manifest in the flesh. "When Christ was followed by the multi-tudes they asked if he was greater than Moses. They told him that Moses had given his people bread from heaven, the manna, but that our Savior had only given them earthly bread. The answer of Christ was that he was greater than Moses, for Moses had received the manna from God, the father. If an the living bread, 'said He, and I came from Bethlehem, which is the house of bread."

First Presbyterian Church. The pulpit of the First Presbyterian church a the absence of Dr. Barnett, was filled by Mr. Hollingsworth preached an earnest und able sermon from John xx, 21: "Then aid Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you: as my Father hath sent me, even so Fend as my rather hath tensions, and I you."

He explained at length the reasons and causes which brought Jesus into the world, first, to declare and to defend the truth, that the world might become better and that by His coming all false creeds and doctrines might be destroyed. Second, that His coming had been prophesied in former times and in order to fulfil the scripture his presence in order to fulfil the scripture his presence was necessary.

Also, that the world was in need of a Christian example, a character to lead men in the paths of truth and godliness and to instill the teaching of the Bible more than ever into the world.

The solo sung by Mr. Pigott, of Chicago, was rendered in a delightful and entertaining manner.

At the First Baptist.

Dr. Hawthorne preached a grand sermon to a large congregation yesterday morning. His subject was "The Power of a Despised Faith," and the text was, "The crucifixion of Faith," and the text was, "The crucifixion of Christ was to the Jews a stumbling block, and to the Greeks foolishness."

He spoke of the grandness of the faith that had been reviled and despised. If Jesus had appeared as a painter or a poet the Greeks would have been prepared to receive Him as the Christ, as He would have Tullilled their ideal. He touched upon the great power and growth of Christianity. Despite the opposition and abuse it met, the great religion of God was marching grandly forward.

BOUND TO MARRY.

The Parents Objected, but the Sweetheart Would Not Wait.

A young cloping couple moved around at a brisk gait yesterday.

On Saturday W. A. Steerman asked the parents of Miss May Kershaw for her. They refused. But she consented and the young lovers decided they would marry anyway. They knew that they would have to be very careful. Miss Kershaw has two sisters who ran away to marry and she realized that the suspicious of the family were aroused. The suspicious of the family were aroused. The sisters, too, would not approve of an elopement, she was sure. Her sweetheart waited until Sunday morning before getting a license. He did not lose time after that, but communicated with the young lady. She left home to spend the afternoon with some friends! The groom met her and then began the factics of finding a clergyman. They walked off to a safe distance on Capitol avenue, took a car and went out West Peachtree, and then by a circuitous route walked back to Luckie street, where they called at the residence of Rey. M. G. Daves, pastor of Payne's chapel. They asked him to please marry them right away. He was obliging and soon made them man and wife. Then they went home to the groom's parents. There it was accepted with good grace and a telephone message was sent to the bride's home notifying the family of what had oc-home users in good hands and will call when the curred.

"They are in good hands and will call when fregiven," was the announcement. Replying to the above, Editor Majors says:

The facts in the case are: When Richardson first came here he brought along a great many tools, but has never paid taxes on them until 1892. In the state election Majors challenged Richardson's vote along with several other third partyltes and when the grand fury met a true bill was found against him for illegal voting. When he was arrested he refused to give bond and was committed to fail. He claims to be the object of democratic hate and a magtyr to the third party cause. While on this. The New South would be pleased if Solicitor Richardson would inform the people of Douglas county why he claims that there was nothing in the bill against Richardson for illegal voting, as the law governing such cases is plain and he is clearly guilty, as he owned property in the state of Georgia in 1891, and was here before the first day of April and never gave in or paid taxes, either state, county or town. While he was so vigilantly prosecuting the blind tigers he should have given some of his time to illegal voters of this namesake lik.

Talmage Institute Closes Without an Exhi-

Irwinton, Ga., June 4.—(Special.)—Poor Talmage institute! It is certainly in the soup! No school and no exhibition! Thursday, the 25th, Professor Sherman called a meeting of the board of education and asked that his school be discontinued. The request was granted, and Friday morning the school was dismissed.

The custom of Talmage institute has been to teach ten months during the yearsix in the spring and four in the fall term. This year the school was closed at the expiration of the public school term—five months.

expiration of the public school term—five months.

For reasons unknown to us, the principal saw fit to discontinue the school and to abandon the closing exercises customary at the end of each term.

It is now supposed that the dissatisfaction among the pupils and the indifference of the patrons brought about the action of Professor Sherman.

At any rate, the matter will be thoroughly sifted next week and the facts given to the public just as they are.

There would have been six prizes awarded to the pupils entitled to them had the school continued, but the closing rendered it impossible to properly award them. As Miss Belle Jones, of the intermediate department, was awarded the prize for general excellency—gold medal.

Mrs Annie Hughes awarded a prize to Miss Matte Baker for being the best music scholar in her class—gold medal.

A Stewart County Farmer.

Lumpkin, Ga., June 4.—(Special.)—Mr. H. M. Stevens who lives three or four miles east of Lumpkin, has shown by the results of his methods that he is one of the best and most successful Stewart county farmers. He has plenty of old corn in his crib with the prospect of an abundant supply for another year. He has plenty of meat of his own raising for the year and a good lot of porkers coming on. He has peanuts planted to keep them fat until fall. He planted last fall one and three-quarters bushels of wheat and has harvested from it fifty-five bushels of good wheat and sold several loads of straw.

Cropsin Miller County. Cropsin Miller County.

Colquitt, Ga., June 4.—(Special.)—This section of Georgia just now is being blessed with plenty of rain. The crops are looking fine. The farmers are now reaping one of the finest out crops that was ever grown in the history of Miller county. An abundant supply of hogs is being raised in this county this year, which goes to show that our farmers are more determined than ever to make their farms self-sustaining. Farmers who heretofore have bought meat out of western smokehouses are selling bacon to the merchants this spring.

His Slaying of the Oppressor of the

THE TEXT CHOSEN BY DR. TALMAGE.

For His Bermon at the Tabernacle-The Danger of Worldly Elevation-Eglon Struck Down Rolling in Luxury.

Brooklyn, June 4.—(Special-)—The sermon selected by Rev. Dr. Talmage for this forenoon is founded on the text, Judges 3:15: "But when the children of Isreal cried unto the Lord, the Lord raised them up a deliverer, Ebud, the son of Gera, a Benjaminnite, a man left handed."

Ehud was a ruler in Israel. He was lefthanded and what was peculiar about the tribe of Benjamin, to which he belonged, there were in it 700 left-handed men and yet, so dexterous had they all become in the use of the left hand, that the Bible says they could sling stones at a hair's breadth, and not miss.

Well, there was a king by the name of Well, there was a king by the name of Eglon, who was an oppressor of Israel. He imposed upon them a most outrageous tax. hand, the man of whom I first spoke, had a divine commission to destroy that oppressor. He came, pretending that he was going to pay the tax, and asked to see King Eglon. He was teld he was in the summer house, the place to which the king retired when it was too hot to sit in the relater. This summer house was a place sure etired when it was too hot to sit in the alace. This summer house was a place surpounded by flowers and trees, and springing ountains, and warbling birds. Ehud enterd the summer house, and said to King Lion that he had a secret errand with im. Immediately all the attendants were vaved out of the royal presence. King Lion rises up to receive the messenger. Lind, the left-handed man, puts his left and to his right side, pulls out a dagger and hrasts Ezlon through until the haft went hand to his right side, pulls out a dagger and thrusts Eglon through until the haft went in after the blade. Eglon falls. Ehnd comes forth to blow a trumpet of recruit amidst the mountains of Ephraim; and a great host is marshaled, and proud Moab submits to the conquerer, and Israel is free. So, O Lord, let all thy enemies perish! So, O Lord, let all thy friends triumph! I learn first, from this subject, the power of left-handed men. There are some men who, by physical organization, have as much strength in their left hand as in their right hand; but there is something in the writing of this text which implies that Ehud had some defect in his right hand, which compelled him to use the left. Oh, the power of left-handed men! Genius is often self-observant, careful of itself, not given to much toil, burning incense to its own aggrandizement; while many its own aggrandizement; while many an, with no natural endowments, actu-defective in physical and mental or-ization, has an earnestness for the not miss. I suppose it was practice that gave him the wonderful dexterity. Go forth to your spheres of duty, and be not discouraged if, in your first attempts, you miss the mark. Elud missel it. Take another the second of the miss the mark. Ehud missed it. Take another stone, put it carefully into the sling, swing it around your head, take better aim, and the next time you will strike the center. The first time a mason rings his trowel upon the brick, he does not expect to put up a perfect wall. The first time a carpenter sends a plane over a board, or drives a bit through a beam, he does not expect to make perfect expect to. drives a bit through a beam, he does not expect to make perfect execution. The first time a boy attempts a rhyme, he does not expect to cidine a "Lalla (tookh," or a Lady of the Lake." Do not be surprised if, in your first efforts at doing good, your are not very largely successful. Understand that usefulness is an art, a science, a trade, There was an oculist performing a very difficult operation on the human eye. A young doctor stood by and said, "How easily you do that; it don't seem to cause you any trouble at all." "Ah." said the old oculist, "it is very easy now, but I spoiled a larful of eyes to learn that." Be not surprised if it takes some practice before we can help men to moral eyesight. before we can help men to moral eyes, ghts and bring them to a vision of the cross, Left-handed men to the work! Take the gospel for a sling, and faith and repentance for the smooth stone from the brook; take

When Garibaldi was going out to battle, be told his troops what he wanted them to do, and after he had described what he do, and after he had described what he wanted them to do, they said: "Well, general, what are you going to give us for all this?" "Well," he replied, "I don't know what else you will get, but you will get hunger, and cold, and wounds, and death. How do you like it?" His men stood before him for a little while in silence, and then they threw up their hands and cried, "We are the men! We are the men!" The Lord Jesus Christ calls you to his service. I do not promise you an easy time in this world. You may have persecutions, and trials, and misrepresentations; but afd trials, and misrepresentations; but af terward there comes an eternal weight of glory, and you can bear the wounds, and the bruises, and the misrepresentations, if you can have the reward afterward.

TO BREAK UP attacks of colds, chilis, fevers, rheumatism, neuralgia, and kindred derangements resulting from severe exposure, there's nothing so valuable as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. No household should be without them, to meet just such emergencies. without them, to meet just such emergencies.

These little Fellets are tiny, sugar-coated things that every child is ready for. They keep the whole system requirements, in a perfectly natural way. They're a compound of refined and concentrated vegetable extracts; put up in glass vials, always fresh and reliable; a handy and perfect vest-pocket remedy.

If they don't give satisfaction, in every case, your money will be returned. Sometime when you are suffering from Catarrh, think of the thousands of hopeless cases which must have been cared by Doctor Sage's Catarrh Hemedy, before its proprietors could be willing to say, as they do: "For any case of Catarrh, no matter how bad, which we cannot cure, we'll pay $500 cash." Have you not enough enthusiasm to cry out "We are the men! We are the men!"

I learn also from this subject the danger of worldly electation. This legion was what the world called a great man. There were hundreds of people who world have considered it the greatest honor of their life just to have him speak to them, yet although he is so high up in worldly position, he is not beyond the reach of Ehad's dagger. I see a great many people trying to climb up in social position, having an idea that there is a safe place somewhere far above, not knowing that the mountain of fame has a top like Mont Blanc, covered with perpetual snow.

The goal for which men are running is chairs, and chandeliers, and mirrors, and houses, and lands, and they anticipate, what have they live, and, worse than that, they are not safe after they are dead; for I have seen swing root up graveyards. One day a man goes up into publicity, and the world does him to be people, there is a waving of hats and a will huza. Tomorrow the same man is caught between the jaws of the printing press and mangled and bruised, and the very same house of the printing press and mangled and bruised, and the very same house of the printing press and mangled and bruised, and the very same house of the printing press and mangled and bruised, and the very same house of the printing press and mangled and bruised, and the very same house of the printing press and mangled and bruised, and the very same house of the printing press and mangled and bruised, and the very same pressure that the propose of the printing press and mangled and bruised, and the very same Fiere is a father in middife; his coming home at night is the signal for mirth. The children rush to the door, and there are books on the evening stand, and the hours pass away in glad feet. There is nothing wanting in that home. Religion is there, and savidices on the alter movember of and sacrifices on the altar mourning at night. You look in that househeld and say, "I cannot think of anything happier, I do not really believe the world is so sad I do not really believe the world is so sad a place as some people describe it to be." The scene changes. Father is sick. The doors must be kept shut. The death watch chirps dolefully on the hearth. The children whisper and walk softly where once they romped. Passing the house late at right you see the quick glancing of lights from room to room. It is all over. Death in the summer house!

Here is an aged mother—aged, but not infirm. You think you will have the jey of earing for her wants a good while yed. As she goes from house to house, to chitten, and grandchildren, her coming is dropping of sunlight in the dwelling. Yet children see her coming through the lane, and they cry, "Graadmother's come."

Care for you has marked up her face with many a deep wrinkle, and her back stoops with comparative your burden. Care for you has marked up her face with many a deep wrinkle, and her back stoops with carrying your burdens. Some day sad is very quiet. She says she is not sick, but something tells you, you will not much longer have mother. She will sit with you no more at the table, nor at the hearth. Her soul goes out so gently, you do not exactly know the moment of its going. Fold the hands that have done so many kindnesses for you right over the heart that has beat with love toward you since before you were born. Let the pilgrim rest. She is weary. Death in the summer house!

Gather about us what we will of comfort and luxury, when the pale messenger comes he does not stop to look at the architecture of the house before he comes in; nor, entering, does he wait to examine the pictures we have gathered on the wall; or, bending over your pillow, he does not stop to see whether there is a color in the check, or gentleness in the eye, or intelligence in the brow. But what of that? Must we stand forever mourning among the grayes of our dead? No! No! The people. gence in the brow, But what of that? Must we stand forever mourning among the graves of our dead? No! No! The people in Bengal bring cages of birds to the graves of their dead, and then they open the cages, and the birds go sluging heaven-ward. So I bring to the graves of your dead all bright thoughts and congravula-tions, and bid them think of victory and redempton. I stamp on the bottom of the graye and it breaks through into the light and the glory of heaven.

graye and it breaks through into the light and the glory of heaven.

The ancients used to think that the straits entering the Red sea were very dangerous places, and they supposed that every ship that went through those straits would be destroyed, and they were in the babit of putting on weeds of mourning for those who had rouge on that younge, as though destroyed, and they were putting on weeds of mourning for those who had gone on that younge, as though they were actually dead. Do you know what they called those straits? They call them the Gate of Tenrs. Oh, I stand today at the gate of tears through which many of your loved ones have gone, and I want to tell you that all are not shipwrecked that have gone through those straits into the great ocean stretching out beyond. The sound that comes from that other shore on still nights when we are wrapped in prayer makes me think that the departed are not dead. We are the dead—we who toil; we who weep; we who sin—we are the deal. How my heart aches for human sorrow; this sound of breaking hearts that I hear all about me. An is last kiss of lips that never will speak again; this widowhood and orphanage! Oh, when will the day of

ATLANTA, GA., June 5, 1893.

A Lay Sermon.

The Constitution does not claim the gift of prophecy, but it long since predicted that the higher criticism, as interpreted by Dr. George Briggs, would be repudiated by the northern general

The prophecy has now become history and Dr. Briggs has been susper ded from the Presbyterian ministry. This is a milder sentence than the burning of Servetus by the magistracy of Genoa or the imprisonment of Galileo by a political order. It is more in accordance with nineteenth century methods, and will meet with the general approval of evangelical Christendom. If a minister becomes so advanced in his ways of thinking and teaching as to find himself out of harmony with the standard theology of his church the proper thing for him to do is to retire gracefully from the scene.

To occupy the pulpit of a church and under cover of his robes to bombard the bulwarks of its faith is, to say the least, a grand impertinence. If Dr. Briggs had adopted this common-sense view of the situation he would have saved himself a personal mortification and prevented the unseemly strife of tongues and the unpleasant heartburnings which for a season are sure to follow his enforced retirement.

If a layman may be allowed a suggestion we would venture to say that this matter of Biblical criticism which began with the German theologists of the last century, has ceased to be practical or profitable. The great com-mission reads: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every Here there is no authority creature." given to eavil and criticise after the latter-day fashion. It matters little whether a word or letter drops out here and there by the carelessness of a transcriber, enough remains intact to point the way heavenward. Tichendorf's Codex Singitieus and the later found Acts of the Apostles, are of less practical worth than the street preaching of Booth's Salvationists in the heart of "darkest London," or the sledge-hammer blows of some backwoods evangelist, aimed at popular vices.

The greatest preachers of past or Hebrew roots or Greek accents. The great Dr. Chalmers, who carried a whole library in his massive brain, quit the professorship of theology in Edinburgh college to preach as a missionary amongst the laboring classes of "Auld Reekie." John Wesley, who spoke Greek as though if was his mother tongue, knew how to preach to the edification of the Cornwall miners. It would have been far better for Dr. Briggs if, instead of befuddling the theologians of Union seminary with hypercritical discussions on plenary inentration he had taught them the simple story of the evangelists. Most of the universities of Germany have, for these many years, been the spawning places of heresy, and more than one theological seminary in America-notably that at Andover-have been the hotbeds (2) issues that have hindered rather than helped the propagation of the gospel.

There is in some quarters a super-Bulty of learning and a morbid excess of "philosophy, falsely so-called." would be well for some of our younger divines if they would be warned fate of Briggs, and better still if they would give more earnest heed to Paul's exhortation to Timothy: "Preach the word; be insistant in season and out of season."

A Mistaken Contemporary.

The Boston News is a bright, wellmeaning paper, and it knows fully as much about the southern situation as it knows about the local problems of Patagonia. Commenting on one of our recent editorials, it says:

The Atlanta Constitution saves that the negro is getting along very comfortably in that section; that the two races dwell togeth-er or, the most friendly terms, and that if outsider would mind their own business there would never be any race problem in the souti. Probably not. Give the south its own way and the negro would never be heard from, except through the sobs of mothers and the paintive cries of fatherless children. Let outside interference cease and the colored wan walls soon he reduced the colored man weuld soon be reduced to a con-dition even worse than before the war—as much a slave as then and without any claim upon his masters for support. And, by the way, what are you outders doing for the negro? You lynch him in New York, in Indiana, in Illinois and in Kansas. You bar him out of all except purely mental occupations in New England, in the middle states and in the west. Your leaders like Ingalls and Halstead want to deport him to Africa or deprive him of the right to vote. Your philanthropists in the churches have decided to throw him everboard and contribute no more money for 13 education.

The south points to her well-fed, wellhoused, happy and prosperous population as a complete answer to the iliculous ravings of such papers as Ine Boston News. Down this way we give every law-abiding negro employment and protection. Our white workingmen do not combine to drive him out of any occupation and our statesmen do not try to rob him of the ballot nor do they propose to banish him. Until the outsiders can make a better showing they should mind their own business.

The Mass Meeting Tomorrow. It is to be hoped that the mass meeting of Atlanta's representative citizens, called by Mayor Goodwin, at the Chamber of Commerce, tomorrow afternoon, will be a large one.

The object of the meeting is to agree upon some plan that will encourage and advance our manufacturing interests.

The conditions were never more favorable for the extension of our industrial enterprises. The manufacturers of the north are seriously considering whether they shall wind up their business or shift their plants to the south. In Massachusetts the cotton manufacfurers complain that they are handicapped by southern competition. The Boston Journal says of the situation:

We have before us a letter written a few weeks oga to a northern capitalist, seeking aid, for the establishment of a new cotton mill in an important southern city. Some of the inducements offered were these: A free gift of land for the mill, exemption from all taxation for ten years, cotton delivered by planters at the mill at about 11-2 cents by planters at the mili at about 112 cents less per pound than it costs the New England manufacturer, coal at $2 per ton, and good white labor that will work ten and eleven hours a day at wages from 30 to 40 per cent less than New England manufacturers are paying. With advantages such as these, is it any wonder that cotton mills are multiplying in the south, all of them contributing to crease the competition against which Mas achusetts manufacturers have to contend?

The same complaint comes from the iron, steel, furniture and numerous other industries. They are looking southward where cheaper raw material and cheaper labor would yield them larger profits, and where the distributing facilities of a center like Atlanta would give them easy access to all the markets of the world.

In view of these facts we cannot doubt the wisdom of now making an organized effort to aid home factories and establish new ones. Our people have realized the folly of shipping iron ore at $2 per ton and buying it back in its manufactured shape at from $20 to $100 per ton-of selling cotton at 7 cents per pound and paying 20 to 80 cents per pound for it when it has gone through northern or foreign mills-of selling timber at $8 per thousand and paying twenty times as much for it when it comes back to us from northern furniture factories.

Of all points in the south Atlanta s unquestionably the most favorably situated and the best equipped for manufacturing. But, as Mayor Goodwin remarked in yesterday's Constitution, we have for some time past relied entirely upon our advantages, and have made no organized effort to attract and build up the diversified industries which would in a few years double our wealth and population. This policy of inaction is unwise, and it is time to arouse the public spirit of our citizens, and rally them together in a movement which promises so much for our future.

It is true that in comparison with other southern cities Atlanta has hardly felt the prevailing depression. Holding our own, however, or making slow progress should not satisfy us. All that we have to do to make this a great manufacturing center is to pull together. meet outside enterprise half way, and judiciously advertise our advantages. If distant factory owners who think of coming here desire some substantial encouragement in the shape of loans. cheap sites, low taxes and investments in their stock, we should be prepared to come to their support.

Doubtless these points will be duly considered and discussed when our citizens meet tomorrow. There is enough foresight, public spirit and liberality liere to maintain a manufacturers' association that will be a powerful factor in the upbuilding of our community. With a little well-directed enterprise we can draw to the city scores of manufacturing establishments that will give employment to thousands, swell our population, fill all the houses that can be built in the next ten years, increase the value of our real estate, and make flush times all the year found with the money that the wage earners will earn and spend every week. The meeting tomorrow should not be missed. Atlanta must be on deck!

Business Men and the Silver Question.

There is nothing more remarkable than the languid interest displayed in current financial issues by the merchants and business men. It is remarkable because these issues touch their prosperity in its most vital spot. Do they imagine that a further decline in values and prices will increase their profits? Do they imagine that their affairs will flourish and prosper during a period of depression, when all interests are endeavoring-some of them vainly-to adjust themselves to the tightening grip of the gold trust?

They may rest assured that the march of events will speedily undeceive them. All enterprise and all business lie dead when the contraction of values and the fall in prices is going on, and nothing can flourish while labor is robbed of all its profits for the benefit of the sordid greed that has its center in old England and its active agents in New England and the northeast.

If the merchants and business men had been asked to give their consent to the levying of a tax on the cotton and wheat growers of this country to the amount of $800,000,000 for the benefit of the cotton and wheat growers of India, no doubt they would have refused with indignation. If they had been asked to approve a law having for its object the building up of the agricul-tural interests of India and the crippling of our own, they would have turned away from the proposition with scorn. But this is precisely what happened when John Sherman, in the senate, and Hooper, of Massachusetts, engineered through congress a bill prepared by Ernest Seyd, the paid agent of the Bank of England, which provided for the demonetization of silver. At that time cotton was worth about 17 cents a pound and wheat about $1.25 a bushel. In 1893, twenty years later, these commodities, on the farm, are about 65-8 cents a pound, and 65 cents a bushel respectively, and the methods of producing these staples have not been cheapened. In other words, it costs a southern farmer as much to produce a pound of cotton for which he receives 6 cents on the farm as it did to raise the pound for which he received 163-8 cents on the farm. The same may be said of the wheat grower.

Do our merchants and business men, aking a large view of the matter, think that the silver miners in the west have as much interest in restoring silver to our currency as the farmers have? Does not the condition of our farmers-their prosperity or their poverty-have a powerful influence on the affairs of our business men, and on the whole course of trade?

We are presenting this question to the common sense of those who are engaged in trade and business, but we have not told the whole story in showing the tremendous fall in wheat and cotton with no compensating results. The price of Indian wheat is still from 15 to 17 cents a pound, measured by the silver rupee, and the rupee, in spite of the depreciation of silver bullion, is as good as gold to the Indian producers. The difference between the silver price of cotton in India and the gold price received by the southern farmers is the bounty that the gold trust of the United States compels our farmers to pay India for competing with our cotton and wheat producers.

Before the demonetization of silver in 1873. India cut no figure whatever as an exporter of cotton and wheat; but the money power of the east, playing into the hands of British bankers and tradesmen, have compelled our own cotfon and wheat growers to pay their own profits as a bounty on every pound of cotton and bushel of wheat exported from India. The result is that India now exports more than one hundred million dollars' worth of cotton annually, and nearly as much wheat. But, as we have said, the decline in price is not the whole story. It is the continuous downward pressure that does the damage. Wheat last week reached the lowest point in thirty years. How long before cotton will go to a like figure, and where will the fall in prices and the contraction of values end?

The reason that the farmers of the outh and west are paying a bounty to Indian producers is this: The Indian rupee has never depreciated. Mr. Gladstone calls it the "persistent ru-Whether it is upheld and made nee." valuable by the law or by Providence, the fact remains. It is as good as gold. The English traders can purchase 64 cents' worth of silver, and with this buy a dollar's worth of rupee paper, which will buy a dollar's worth of Indian cotton. The 64 cents' worth of silver, sent to India is coined into repees worth something more than a dollar, for the coinage ratio is 15 to 1. In other words the Indian producer gets equivalent of more than a dollar in gold for the commodity that Wie American producer is compelled to sell for

We place these facts before the merchants and business men of the south for their careful consideration.

AN EXTRA SESSION.

Blobmond Dispatch: The more we reflect upon the subject the more impressed are we with the importance of an early session of congress. To frame a tariff is the work of months. To devise measures whereby the months. To decision may be sloved is not the work of a week or two. To repeal the federal election laws is a duty that cannot be performed in a hurry. Te settle righteously the Hawaiian matter will be to do what wise statesmen will not undertake to do without previous due deliberation and full considera of the question and all its probable consequences, present and remote.

New York Sun: Democratic victories in November in all the states where elections are to be held would strengthen and sustain the party's representatives in the course marked out for them by the national conwention with paramount authority and ex-plicit clearness. Democratic reverses, indi-cating a forfeiture of public confidence, would assist and encourage the now prostrate fepublicans to greater efforts in attacking, embarrassing and perhaps defeating that programme of sweeping internal reform in tax levying and tay activities. tax levying and tax gathering to which the lemocracy is unconditionally committed.

Herein is one of the gent advantages of an early extra session of congress, at which the policy of the party may be still more clearly outlined, the fulfilment of its pledges begun and the reasonable expactations those who, with honest purpose and patr otic intent, supported its candidates in the hope of better things and better times finan-cially. That done, and done before the beginning of the state contests, which will be at their height in the month of October, the republicans will be deprived of all vestige of argument against the democracy for having broken faith or being willing to break faith with the people who elected its candidates. An early extra session is in order. An early extra session is in order.

STATE PRESS COMMENT.

Dahlonega Nugget: A brighter day than was ever dreamed of is dawning on north Georgia. Watch and wait.

Franklin News: The Atlanta Constitution urges that Georgia be advertised. It sug-gests the line of descriptive pamphlets of the counties. The suggestion is a wise one. Effingham Chronicle: Cannot the state find employment for its vagrant idlers? The pub lic roads need working, heaven knows! Sup-pose each county had a farm worked by "idlers from choice with no visible means of support," wouldn't it help matters a bit?

Brunswick Advertiser: Brunswick is all right. Mr. J. I. Heath, the hustling market gardener, brings to the office a twin squas If our people would stick as close toget these would be no trouble for the future.

TALK ABOUT ATLANTA

Albany Herald: The Atlanta postoffice fighters are at Washington, watching and waiting for the president and Postmaster General Bissell to return. General Gordon is there and will look after the interests of his man. They ought to draw straws and settle the whole thing at once.

Lumpkin Independent: Atlanta paid worthy tribute of flowers and tears to the hero of the confederacy, Jefferson Davis, as his remains passed through that city nday afternoon that will never from the memory of the citizens of that place as the years roll by.

Within six months two men have been united by trying to keep up with "the pace that kills," and it was partly because they were living in the atmosphere of display. It would be idle to say that this atmosphere does not exist to some extent in all wealthy communities, but it is peculiarly prevalent in new cities of rapid growth. There is more of it. cities of rapid growth. There is more ip Atlanta than there is in Augusta and Sa vannah. In time Atlanta will outgrow it and her recent experiences are calculated to eccelerate her progress in that direction

WANT AN INCOME TAX.

Franklin News: Mr. Cleveland has announced his intention to recommend an income tax to congress. That is democracy. Douglas Breeze: The Breeze is in favor of a fax on incomes. Such a tax would force the rich man to help the poor man pay the expenses of our government.

Alpharetta Free Press: An income tax is a just system of taxation, and we cannot see how any fair-minded man can object to it. We believe that nine hundred and ninetyout of every one thousand Georgians favor it. Let us have an income tax.

Quitman Free Press: The great masses of the American people favor a tariff for reve nue only, and an income tax so as to distrib ute equally the burdens of the want no neoratic government in ours, but every man to bear his part according to what he is worth.

RAISING HOME SUPPLIES.

Cairo Georgian: Our farmers have more meat and lard than they need for home con-sumption, and we applaud them for it, and advise them to continue the same channel and they can live, cotton or no cotton.

Lumpkin Independent: There will be very little, if any, corn shipped into Stewart cour ty this year, and we hope that in a few year there will be no meat shipped here. Let our people raise all of their provisions at horne and then the country will be prosperous.

Warrenton Clipper: We are satisfied there is no section in Georgia where the people de rote as much of their attention to the raishogs as they do in this county. The death of Mrs. J. W. Taylor, of this city, was a source of great sorrow to her friends.

She was just twenty-five years old and her lovely character was just blooming into maturity for the life and light of her home.

Mrs. Taylor was a native of Monroe, N. C., and came as a bride to reside in Atlanta during the summer of 1892. During her stayin Atlanta she made many friends and endeared herself to all by her sweet and womanly sympathy and her cheery and pleasant spirit. She was always bright and hipselful, never compilaining and in the devoted unselfishness of her nature she was a blessing to her friends, as she was the pride and joy of her husband's heart. She died after a brief illness of ten days, leaving a baby her as the only comfort to her deeply bereaved husband.

Tender and loving hands laid her to rest in Westriew cemetery yesterday afternoon after funeral services at the house by Dr. Strickler. Loving friends mourn her loss and sympathize deeply with her sorrowing husband and relatives in their bereavement. Mrs. Taylor was in all things a sincere Christian woman and the sadness of her bereaved ones will find a ray of comfort in this remembrance, that she died blessed.

Hundred and Twenty-five Soldiers

"I don't believe that he will refuse to see me," I added. "Well, I'll ask him."

And the Atlanta officer went down after Hill. In a few moments the two came up. Hill looked a thousand times worse than ever. He had had little or no sleep, and was as wild as a maniac, while feeling the borrors of his situation in a manner beyond his own ability to conceal. Jennings never left my side, while Hill broke down and bowed his head in tears as I told him what Will Stop Talking.

I had wired The Constitution last night. "Did I say all that?" he asked. "Yes, and a great deal more."

"Well, I won't do any more talking. I've taked too much already." "Are you afraid to go back to Atlanta?" "Afraid? Not a little bit: I'm afraid of sothing. I have done nothing wrong, and before this matter is settled, some one will be grieved that I was ever asked to come back. Great God! this is ferrible; don't sik me to talk more. I am advised to say sothing, yet when you come I must talk. Don't say anything more." And he put his landkerchief to his eyes, and his whole tame shook with the violence of his emoton. His condition, beyond being pitiful, mas dramatic in the extreme. Nervous by nature, the strain of his invironment has

These four that is confinement have told on him, and well-dressed Harry Hill will not be recognized hardly, when he is seen in Atlanta. The many friends of Captain Greenough were sorry to see him go away for he was one of the most popular of all the officers at the fort.

The special train that took the soldiers been more than a giant could stand. In very way Hill's unusual sensitiveness sows the depth of his feelings. These four or they hve had a hard chase, and have puarded Hill studiously. At 12 o'clock, mpings and the officers went to the porld's fair. Among the first things Jen-ings said this morning was that he was bing out soon with Hill to give him a pave and a bath, but he went off to the ar and Hill still remains, dirty and unhaven. His cell is filthy, and he had to omplain to the commandant to have It aned. The request was granted. At 11 clock the sheriff of Cook county, read ie requisition signed by the Illinois govmor. Hill answered quickly: "I recognize to requisition, though it is totally unlocessary. I would go to Atlanta now; I m heart-sick, sore tired, and almost dead." He looked all he said.

A Bouquet for Harry. Hill has said nothing to any one since his acareeration which has not been previousy published in The Constitution. I have not left him longer than momentarily, and In free to say the work has nearly knockme out. A lady who felt sympathy for Hill, today sent him a bunch of filacs. He took them and said: "The first breath of the south, God bless the lady who sent

A question has been raised in regard to Wink Taylor harboring Hill and aiding him to escape. Nothing may be done about it as Taylor is a long way off, but if he will drop down in Georgia he may hear of something interesting. It is none the less an offense against the state, because committed beyond the jurisdiction of the state. Georgia justice was seeking to lay hold of the absconder and his friend kept him out of the way for awhile.

A great deal that Harry Hill has said since his arrest has reacehd Atlanta in channels other than through the newspapers. His own account of the last few years of his life is no longer confined to the letter said to contain his confession sent to his former partner and attorney, Colonel Echols. Hill has unbosomed himself, it would seem, and has certainly told his history and possibly more. What is fact and what is fiellon cannot be distinguished by the naked eye at this distance.

Some have made the prediction that Harry Hill will not come back here alive if he can help it. His most intimate friends declare that he will face the music; that he will make a clear breast of the whole affair and take the consequences. His own idea as to what the censequences will be is that they will not be very serious to him. His defense will be that he is not guilty of forgery. pected. The game will have special attractions for Atlanta lovers of baseball, for Darby will be in the pitcher's box and Newman in the outfield.

Sullivan will put his star twirler, Hoffer, in against Atlanta, and will use all his gen-eralship and all the abilities of his team to pull down a victory. The Nashville team has been very considerably strengthened, and is now one of the very best teams in the league. Any team that considers Nashville an easy thing will be badly fooled. The orders removing the Fourth artiflery division.

The orders removing the Fourth artiflery from Fort McPherson were received in Atlanta some time ago, and at the time several of the companies went to Washington, where they are now stationed. Companies K and L were left in Atlanta for the reactions of the reaction o Two games were played yesterday, New Orleans defeating Savannah and Charles-ton defeating Mobile. The work of the Charleston team recently has, by the way, bordered on the phenomenal. They win right along.

Charleston Defeats Mobile. Mobile, Aia., June 4.—(Special.)—Mobile and Charleston had a battle royal this aftermoon in the presence of about twelve hundred people, but in the closing inning the Sea Gulls, aided by Forster's rank decisions, won the game. It was one of those contests that keeps the nerves at a tenston all through the game—first Mobile and then Charleston being in the least Fire attribute participated.

game—first Mobile and then Charleston being in the lead. Five pitchers participated, three for Mobile and two for Charleston. Mobile worked hard to win, but Forster was "agin" her and that is the only kick the spectators had. Out of the big gate they marched and were soon comfortably quartered in a special train of the Richmend and Danville for the long trip ahead of them.

When the train pulled out of the depot the bugler gave his farewell blow in Atlanta and the boys in blue shouted till their voices were hourse. They were very comfortably fixed in their special train. It was made up of five or six regular passenger conches and the soldiers all had their blankets with them and their cooking utensils. They will reach their new post today and kets with them and their cooking utensils. They will reach their new post today and will soon be comfortably straightened the in their new home.

The soldiers wore the regulation fatigue uniform, with leggings and white hats. They are all fine looking fellows and the two companies made a good appearance, indeed. They said they had enjoyed their stay here at McPherson very much, but one of them, perhaps, spoke for all the rest when he said: "But, you see, we poor soldiers don't have much fun and we need h change now and then." New Orleans Won.

New Orleans, June 4.—(Special.)—New Orleans gave the Savannah boys a great drubbing today. It was a grand slaughter from beginning to end. Jimmy Manning's tribe of "dead rabbits" had their day off and could not begin to play like the home boys. Luby did the pitching for the Pelicans and only let down on the Georgians towards the end of the game. Meakin turned pate in the first inning when Langsford placed the ball in the bleachers for a home-run and brought in three men from the bases. Connaughton had to leave the game on account of an injured fluger and Hurley took his piace. He did the best work of the day and Quarles soon established a reputation as a right fielder, but he did not stay long there, for Meakin began kidking at an unjust decision of Umpire Hill, but he was too bolsterous and was ruled out of the game and Quarles was called in to pitch.

SONGS FROM THE CELLS.

The special train that took the soldiers away went out on the Richmond and Danville yesterday morning just ahead of the regular passenger train at 8:50 cłock. It will be a day and night on the road. A Sample Sunday Night Behind the Bays at the Station House. Saturday night is usually the busiest of the Saturday night is usually the busiest of the week in police circles. Between the hours of 6 and 2 o'clock the police call wagon is kept on the go. Sunday anorning generally finds the cells in the station house pretty well filled. On Sunday a few more cells are occupied and on Sunday night perhaps a half dozen arrests are made. So Sunday night will find from twenty to, sixty prisoners behind the bars. Most of the Saturday night arrests are drunks. In twenty-four hours the effect of the hidden shows worn off.

Strange to relate, a devotional spirit takes the place of the ardent spirits. As the latter disappears the former shows itself.

Take lest night for instance, and it was like all the others.

As the church chimes died away a prisoner away flown at the end of the corridor began to hum a hymn. Before he got over two lines it was taken up by a prisoner ig a neighboring cell. One by one the prisoners joined in until the chorus must have numbered inteen.

"Come Thou Fount of Every Blessing" was sung through. There was a short pause and "Jesus Lover of My Soul" was raised. The singing was being done by the blacks. A white prisoner, who wanted to go to sleep called out to the singers to hurry up and finish their calurch meeting. The singers could scarcely hear him and they did not lower their tories.

A negro-women was brought in and locked up. A friend-saw her pass down the corridor and when the officer withdrew chiled her by name. Separated by several cells the conversation was conducted under difficulty. The prisoners is do to shout to be heard above the singing.

"Who had you 'rested, Susan?" he called

"Who had you 'rested, Susan?" he called who had you rested, Susan' he called out.

She replied that she did not know. He suggested names and tried to get a description, but Susan was not inclined to be definite. He got mad at hearing the shouts and yelled at the singers to shut up. Instantly three of the singers stopped in their religious song and with oaths told the interrupter to be outlet. Grau Opera Company, to witness the initial performance of that clever company.

Manager Grau has never played at such low prices and we feel that the music-loving people of Atlanta will turn out en masse to show their appreciation of first-class opera at popular prices.

The opera will be changed at every performance as the company has a repertoire of twenty operas, any of which can be given in first-class style at an hours' notice. "Said Pasha," an opera brimful of tuneful and catchy music, will be the opening bill, followed Tuesday night by "Fra Diayolo."

Miss Mason, whose voice is a dream of sweetness, will be heard tonight in the leading role. Mr. Gaillard's grand baritone will be heard to advantage in this opera, where his spiendid acting always pleases his audiences.

The large electric exhaust fan, which kept the house so remarkably coal last summer, will be put in operation tonight.

and with oaths told the interrupter to be quiet.

He swore that he would go over to them and do them up. They gave him the laugh and invited him to come out of the cell in which he was securely locked. The singing ceased, the vocalists listening to the profanity for a few minutes. The suddenness of the charge from devotional hymns to profanity was laughable in one sense.

To drown out the quarrel the singers struck up another tune. Hardened women joined in and it was given with spirit.

The sleepy prisoners would protest, but it was of no use. For more than two hours the service was kept up, interrupted occasionally by remarks from prisoners who were not singing.

This was merely a sample Sunday night.
There is always a song service participated in by the most irreverent, many of whom remember the words of hymus which they learned wheir children. Sometimes a wiid drunken prisoner is turned in and his crazy ravings keep all awake for hours. But usually everything is quiet by midnight.

Away at Tate Springs.

The news of the death of Mr. Allison Greene, the well-known merchant of Atlanta, will throw a solemn speil of gloom over the hearts of his many friends in this city.

Mr. Greene, who has been quite sick for some time, died at Tate Springs yesterday. He has not been well for several months and has been causing much anxiety on the part of his many friends here for the past few weeks by his fast failing health.

Mr. Greene was one of the most energetic merchants of Atlanta and for a long time was a prosperous one. His health began to fall and then it was that he had to give up his business.

He was a useful and very public-spirited citizen. He had many hobic traits of character that endeared him to his family and hosts of friends.

The arrangements for the funeral have not as yet been fully made, but dae notice of them will be given. There are many to mourn the legs of Mr. Greene. A thief entered the room of J. Fraudcar, at 57 Bell street, early yesterday morning and stole $145 in cash from the pockets of his clothing.

WORLD'S FAIR FREE

The Constitution's Offer to the Five Popular Citizens of Atlanta.

THEY ARE TO BE CHOSEN BY BALLOT.

And Everybody Has the Right to Vote-How the Contest will Be Run, and Who Are the Candidates.

Of course everybody is going to the world's fair. That goes without saying. But there are all sorts of ways to go, and the best way is to go for nothing.

There are five persons in Atlanta who can go to Chicago without paying a cent for railroad fare or for board. Who are they? That is the question for the public to de-

The Constitution makes the following offer, which will enable five popular people to visit Chicago, for a week, see the great White City and return home without spending a cent for traveling or board while in hicago. Here is the way it will be done There are in Atlanta

Many firemen,
Many policemen, Many operatives in Atlanta factories, Many public school teachers, and Many commissioned military officers.

But there is just one in each of the above classes who is the most popular of the class, and that one from each class is the one who will get The Constitution's trip for nothing to the world's fair.

Here is the way the contest will be run. At the bottom of this announcement will be found five coupons. Clip out the coupons, write on them the name of your choice for each or any of the five offers, giving the name of each candidate, and mail or send them to The Constitution, addressed to the "Coupon Editor," Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

You can vote as often as you want, provided each ballot is clipped from The Constitution and filled out properly as directed. On the 18th of June the ballots will be announced, and the five successful candidates will receive from The Constitution tickets to Chicago and return, and an order on the hotel mentioned for board and lodging for one week.

Here is the chance for your favorite Atan Atlanta factory to see the great fair free of cost.

Every vote counts, and whoever has the most friends will get the trip. Who is your choice?

The individuals receiving the largest number of votes by noon of the 17th day of June, on which day the contest closes, will receive a pass over the WORLD'S FAIR LINE-the great East Tenessee, Virginia and Georgia and the Queen and Crescent to Cincinnati, and the choice between the Big Four and Monon to Chicago and the World's Columblan Exposition on the through vestibule trains, leaving Atlanta daily at 2:10 p. m. and 6:35 a. m., and an order on Leland's Hotel Ingram, fireproof, and at the gates of the World's fair grounds, for board and lodging for one week.

Write the name of your choice in each profession plainly. The coupons will appear daily in The Constitution from now until the 15th of June. Clip them out and vote for your favorites.

These ballots, either one or all, can be voted by anybody just as often as they are dipped from the columns of The Constitu-

The ballots can be sent to The Constitution office either singly or collectively. As stated above they can be left with the "Coupon Editor" at the advertising window of the business office of The Constitution, or they can be mailed to the same address. Here are the ballots:

THE MOST POPULAR TEACHER (of Atlanta's Public Schools.) Teacher. . . . . . . . . . . . . School. . . . . . . . . . . . .

THE MOST POPULAR OPERATIVE (In Any Atlanta Factory.) Name of Operative. . . . . . What Factory. . . . . . . . .

Company. . . . . . . . . . . . .

THE MOST POPULAR POLICEMAN (Of Atlanta Police Force.)

THE MOST POPULAR MILITARY OFFICER, (Of Any of Atlanta's Companies.) Officer. . . . . . . . . . . . .

On the evening of the 17th of June they will be opened and counted and the names of the successful candidates will be announced the next morning.

Now here is a chance to give your favorite teacher, officer, policeman, fireman and oper-ative a delightful ten days' rest from work without the cost of a cent, either to you or to them. All you have to do is to clip out the ballots and vote.

Save up your ballots and see if you can win the contest for your favorites.

You press the button and we do the rest.

VETERANS RETURN.

Some of the Louisiana Escort Pass Through Atlanta.

THEY TALK OF THE EVENTFUL TRIP.

Some Prominent Old Soldiers Who Discussed the Incidents of the Davis Reinterment-Going Home.

A dozen or more of the Louisiana and Mississippi veterans, who went to Richmond to see the final burial of Jefferson Davis, passed through the city yesterday on their way home.

Among the number were Adjutant Gursedt, of the famous Washington Artillery, of New Orleans; Captain Reneau, of the same company; Judge Winchester, of Natchez, Miss., and others.

They were all talking about the trip and the lessons it taught. Standing there in the corridors of the Kimball for a few mo-ments the old soldiers went over the entire trip again, from New Orleans to Richmond, and many were the touching little incidents

"It was a perfect triumphal march through the south," said the handsome adjutant of the Washington Artillery, as he oushed back his slouch of a gray hat, upon which shone the letters "U. C. V.", standing for United Confederate Veterans. "Yes, sir, there was never anything like it on the pages of history and this thing is as true as the gospel of heaven, the last and chapter of the history of the confederacy is the brightest and the best. I tell you but the simple truth when I say that I could scarcely hold back the tears from my eyes at times on that trip. Here it was several years after the death of our old leader; he had been mourned in the hour of death by lanta policeman, fireman, public school us all with genuine sorrow at the time, and with it all after these four or five years to see great throngs of people clamoring to touch his casket in its hurried travel from New Orleans to Richmond—it was too much for me.

"I think one of the most touching sights "I think one of the most touching sights of them all was the presence of so many colored people everywhere along the limp wherever there was a demonstration. At every little town and station the darkies came out and joined their white friends in their sorrowful tribute to the old warrior of the confederacy, showing that whatever our good friends of the north may say the white man and the black here in the south have a kindred sentiment and sympathetic memory of the old days.

"Who can think of that good old darky here in Atlanta coming up to the casket

"Who can think of that good old darky here in Atlanta coming up to the tasket that held the old chieftain's mortal remains, and begging the prifylege of placing one little flower upon his bier, while others of the white people were clamoring to take away with them as mementoes the flowers that had been placed there, without feeling a sort of love for him. And the old darky in Montenners who wanted just to not his band and gomery who wanted just to put his hand on the collin of Marse Jeff, and stood there be-side the caken casket until the tears fairle trickled down his old wrinkled face. Take the whole trip through, and you would see them at every place, standing there with the white people, every one of their black faces picturing a countenance of sadness the same as the whites. This to me was the strongest lesson of the trip—that the color-ed people of the south have not departed as far from their old simple faith and customs as we sometimes are led to fear. The Railroads to Be Praised. "We must not forget the part the rail-roads played," was the remark of Judge Winchester, of Mississippi, who recalled how very courteous the roads had been to the entire party along the way from New Orleans to Richmond. Indeed, it is true. There was never such favor shown an undertaking of this kind by the busy railroad men of the present day as the roads rendered the funeral party, whose sad mission it was to escort the remains of sad mission it was to escort the remains of the dead leader of the south to their final resting place. Mention has altready been made of the atlention shown by the authorities of the Louisville and Nashville and the Atlanta and West Point roads from New Orleans to Atlanta.

From Atlanta to Richmond a special train over the Richmond and Danville, handsemely decorated and nicely fitted up, took the old warrior to his last resting place. Colonel Sam Hardwick, the energetic assistant passenger agent of the Richmond and Danville, had his whole soul in the matter and exerted himself to make travel a comfort to every passenger aboard the train. He worked hard on it weeks in advance.

Mr. Tayloe, of the passenger department of the road, went all the way to Richmond with the party to give them all the attention have never to give. Gallast and tion in human power to give. Gallast and courteous ever he rendered acceptable service to the distinguished party. It is something unusual, indeed, to see such attention given by busy railroad officials to a great party of travelers.

The article further stated that the board of water commissioners of the city of Atianta had assured the council of West End that as soon as the new water-works of Atlanta were put in operation that a connection would be allowed, and that the town of West End could be supplied with water from the Atlanta waterworks. Some time ago a petition was presented to the board of water commissioners from the council, I think of West End to use the city water and offering to pay for the use of the same, and they would lay the pipes through the town of West End at the pipes through the town of West End at the pipes through the town of West End at the pipes through the corn of the water board one of the representatives of Atlanta as yet heen taken. A GCOD JOKE ON A VETERAN.

He Was A'raid the Demonstration at Atlanta Was to Enlist Men as Soldiers Again.

Dalton, Ga., June 4 .- (Special.) - Dalton has the best passenger service just now that she has ever had, and her people are specially grateful for it to those clever and opular railroad men, C. E. Harman and J. J. Farusworth. Both the Western and Atlantic and the East Tennessee have put on extra world's fair trains, and it is now almost one continuous rattle of cars and tooting of the whistle from morning till night, and from night till morning. We could not ask for better rates and time to Chicago than these two roads are now giving us. They tell a good joke on one of the delegation of old vets that went from Dalton to Atlanta on the Jeff Davis occasion last Monday. Tom Lyon, of Cartersville, was there rigged up in an old confederate uni-form, and as soon as the Daltonian spied there rigged up in an old confederate uniform, and as soon as the Daltonian spied Lyon, he began inquiring the time of the departure of trains for home. A little later, he said confidentally to another Daltonian: "Did you see that big fellow in uniform over there? Well, they fooled us here to get us to enlist for another war. It was just that way in '61; most of us in citizen's clothes, and every now and then a big fellow strutting around in a uniform, and the first thing we knew all of us were enlisted. I am going home on the first train; they can't fool me." And be came home.

Little Frieman Harris, the three-year-old son of Dr. Joha F. Harris, of Dalton, died yesterday morning, and was buried in Spring Place to lay.

At the close of Dalton's public school, medals were awarded Miss Lula Blake for efficiency in Latin and mathematics, Carrie Horne for spelling. Rosa Freyalch, Carrie Kirby and Beverly Barrett won the grammar school medals, and Marguerite Detton won the spelling medal in the sixth grade—missing only three words in a session of ten months.

Dr. H. Sanche's Oxydonor "Victory."

A cure for all diseases without the aid of Medicine.

Dr. H. Sanche, the emment scientist, is the discoverer of the method of spontaneous cure and the inventor of all things pertaining thereto. He spent 38 years of his life in arduous labor, under the most trying circumstances, experimenting; in order to give to the world this greatest boon. He is the greatest benefactor of his race, and coming generations will so declare him. Thousands have been saved from suffering and an early grave by his wonderful invention, and now live to tell, the wonderful story to others who are afflicted.

Be not deceived or humbugged into boxing a worthless imitation.

Bishop Haygood Delivers a Powerful Sermon at LaGrange.

"CHRIST'S MOTIVES MISUNDERSTOOD."

Tenight Bob Taylor with His "Fiddle and the Bow" and Monday Night Henry Watterson's "Money and Morals."

LaGrange, Ga., June 4.—(Special.)—Fully 400 radiant-faced, bright-eyed, sweet-graced school girls, daintily clad in all the pretty mery that characterizes the commencement eason gathered in the spacious half of the LaGrange Female college this morning at 11 o'clock, and listened to the delivery of the baccalaureate sermon by Bishop Atticus G. Haygood.

It was an inspiring spectacle; inspiring to the speaker and to the onlooker. Dainty the speaker and to the onlooker. Dainty misses, arrayed in all the glory of commencement gowns, more than half-filled the spacious hall, whose venerable walls are covered with many a work of art, numbers of the pieces being the handiwork of students of the college. It was as if a section of a sunbeam had found its way into the

The commencement exercises of the La-Grange Female college, the great Methodist institution of more than forty years stand-ing, began yesterday with the rendition of delightful programme by the preparatory class. Today Bishop Haygood preached the baccalaureate sermon to over 2,000 people. The 150 girls and over of the Southern Female college were present. The com-mencement exercises at this college do not begin until next Saturday.

Many visitors from out of town were here. Atlanta sent down a big delegation.

In the two colleges are several Atlanta young ladies. LaGrange is in her glory, as the always is in commencement season. she always is in commencement season. Much more than half of the congregation were ladies. The services began by the singing of a song by a choir of young ladies. Two young ladies sang in a beautiful manner a duet, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee." A special programme of music had been prepared and was specially sweet. Bishop Haygood's sermon was one of the best of his life. There was no attempt at best of his life. There was no attempt at oratory, but in a simple, effective way, the sermon was made deeply impressive. It was full of good thought and possessed the tharm which distinguishes Bishop Haygood preaching—that of originality. He read the two parables, one of the lost sheep, the other of the-lost piece of silver. He emphasized the fact that the grief over the lost sheep and silver was not caused by lost sheep and silver was not caused by the lost sheep and silver was not caused by their intrinsic value.

The sermon laid great stress upon the brotherhood of men. The haughty spirit which despises the lowly and humble received treatment at the speaker's hands. No question affecting the social order, he declared, was so important as this one bearing upon the relations of the wealthier classes to the people in matters of religion. bearing upon the relations of the wealthier classes to the poorer in matters of religion. It was a lamentable fact that the poorer tlasses and those in need of divine help refrained from going to church. They were tept away by the feeling that they were tooked down upon. Strange crowds went to hear the preaching of Jesus. The poorest and wickedest were among his auditors. And it was because he ate with and received publicans and sinners that he was despised and put to death.

No one ever understood the motives of an absolutely sincere man. A few women best understood the motives of Jesus. Mary Magdalene, she who had herself been wicked, perhaps best understood him, and next to her Mary and Martha. Because Christ, chose to walk with the lowly He was misunderstood. He had been looked for as a mighty prince.

stood. He had been looked for as a mighty prince.
Once, in Africa, through the ministrations of a kindly missionary, an ignorant native African woman was converted to the religion of God. She was ecstatic in the sublime enjoyment of the new experience. "Oh. isn't it wonderful!" exclaimed a sympathetic lady. With a deep_understanding of Christ and His motives surprising to find the ignorant African woman replied: "Wonderful? No, it's just like Him!"

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock the sophomore class will render a superb programme consisting of recitations and singing. This class is composed of some fine talent and the exercises will be highly entertaining.

Tomorrow night the crowning event of Tomorrow night the crowning event of the commencement will occur. Ex-Governor Bob Taylor, of Tennessee, will deliver his matchless lecture, "The Fiddle and the Bow." Tuesday's programme is full of big avents. The junior class will read essays. Rev. W. C. Black will lecture, there will be a reunion of the college alumnae, and at night the grand annual concert will occur.

at night the grand annual concert will octur.

Wednesday the sweet girl graduates will have their inning. They will read their graduating essays and degrees will be contered, all of which will be grandly entertaining.

The Southern Female college begins its closing exercises next Sunday. The sermion will be preached by Rev. John L. Girardeau, D.D. The biggest event of this dommencement will be the delivery on next Monday night by Henry Watterson, of his famous lecture on "Money and Morals." That lecture is famous the country over. The commencements at both colleges promise to be the best in years. These two institutions, each of which is a half century old, stand among the foremost female colleges of the south.

SINGULAR COINCIDENCE.

Rain Falls in Carrollton Every Fourth Sunday is May.

Carrollton, Ga., June 4.—(Special.)—The following is a singular coincidence that is indeed very unusual:

The annual singing came off at Pleasant View last Sunday, and as usual there was a big rain. It is certainly believed, and you hear it talked of on every street corner, that it has rained in Carrollton on the fourth Sunday in May every year for the past fourteen, except one. Knowing that Hon. Lée Mandeville has kept a diary for the past twenty years a Times reporter visited him at his rooms yesterday and he gave the following data: "I have not kept a weather record," says Lee, "perfectly, but what I have is reliable." In 773, heavy rains after noon; 774, fair; 775, fair; 776, I spent in Rock Island, Canada, light frost in the morning; 777, fair; 778, good rain in evening and night; '79, tight shower; '80, shower; '81, no record; '82, heavy rain; '83, rain; '84, good rain; '85, fair; '86, and '87, no record, but am reliably informed that it rained both days; '88, was in Birmingham, Ala.; '89, in Rome, Italy; '90, rain all the afternoon; '91, good rain; '92, rain; '93, rain. Summing up we find that for twentyone years it has rained, according to his journal, twelve times no rain, twice on record, and three times he was out of the state. It shows that in the last fourteen years it has rained eleven of them, one fair day and the other days he was out of the state. So the popular belief must be correct. This is, indeed, very singular. Pleasant View is a Baptist church, six miles north of Carrollton, and the singing people of this community have had annual singings at the place for the past fourteen years of the fourteen except one.

Commencement except one.

Commencement exercises of Carrollton mubils schools will be held in Meaving Rain Falls in Carrollton Every Fourth Sunday in May.

of the fourteen except one.

Commencement in Carrollton.

The commencement exercises of Carrollton public schools will be held in Moore's opera house on the 18th, 19th and 20th of June. Rev. Mr. Woodbridge, of Griffin, will preach the commencement sermon. A big time is expected as Carrollton's public schools were never so flourishing. schools were never so flourishing.

Commencements Elsewhere. The commencement of Bowden college will be held June 25th. Hon. Edgar W. Watkins, of this city, will deliver the annual address to the Clay and Calhour Society. Colonel Watkins will also deliver the annual address at the commencement exercises of the Bremen High school, which will be on the 8th and 9th of June.

POSSUMS AND PERSIMMONS.

A Novel Suggestion to Combine Them with Cotton.

Blakely, Ga., June 4.—(Special.)—If what Mr. A. P. Hays, of Columbia, says is true, and we doubt it not, there is a fortune to be easily made by some enterprising farmer who will intelligently combine the culture of cotton, persimmons and 'possums. Aleck assures us that all crops, especially cotton, will grow better and produce more under persimmon trees than in the open field. Persimmon trees, we all know, will grow like Jonah's gourd in any of our old worn-out lands. The fondness of the 'possum for the persimmon is an axiom, and the high price which "saplin pork" always commands is well known. Now, what is there to hinder any one from establishing a ranch with persimmons and cotton as incidental crops and 'possum pork as the staple commodity? Some fool should try the experiment, as it would doubtless be a great improvement on the universal custom in this county of planting "all cotton."

Equal Carter's Oats.

Warrenton, Ga., June 4.—(Special.)—
Major C. E. McGregor is the boss oat raiser of this section. His oat crop is equal to or better than Carter's oats were if we are correctly informed on the subject, for we are told that he (Carter) had to shelter his out ratch because the cats a pearly we are told that he (Carter) had to shelter his oat patch because the oats so nearly covered the ground after they were har-vested and shocked. The major's beats that, for he had to move his oats to another lot to find room to shock them. This looks very exaggerating, but it is, nevertheless, a fact.

JUDGE FAIN TALKS.

He Is Well Pleased with the School Situation in Fulton County.

Jude Fain, county school commissioner, is well pleased with the school census of Fulton county, and does not hesitate to say so.
"In 1883," said Judge Fain, "the total of white and colored males and females of a school age was 4,334. Of these 2,604 were white, and 1,730 colored. This year were white, and 1,730 colored. This year the total number was 6,572, the number of whites being 3,630, and the number of colored being 2,942.

"The best report turned in was that of Mr. J. M. Wilson, of West End. His report shows that out of the 406 white children and 971 colored children of a school age, there is not one but that has attended school. Every one of the children between the ages of ten and eighteen, in West End, is able to read, and in the list of infirmities, there does not appear a single child."

This makes West End the banner district.

This makes West End the banner district.

"The closing exercises of the Hapeville school occurred last Friday," said Judge Fain, "and the children did exceptionally well. There was a fine dinner awaiting those who were especially invited, and the exercises were 'very enjoyable. Captain Bradwell was present and made the people a sound address that embodied many interceting statistics.

a sound address that embodied many interesting statistics.

"On the 24th of June the general examination of an licants for teachers' license will be held. Next month, in July, on the 10th, the teachers' institute will meet at Marietta, and there will be teachers from every county in the state present. Professor Ferguson, who has had charge of the Hapeville school, has been selected as the expert in mathematics."

THE HAUNTED POND F. J. STILSON,

Negroes of Waycross Keep Away from the Spot

WHERE ELIJAH CHEAVERS WAS HANGED.

They Claim to Have Seen Him in the Pond. Other Stories Which Excite the Superstitious.

Waycross, Ga., June 4.—(Special.)—Soon after, and frequently since the hanging of Elijah Cheavers, the notorious negro who brutally murdered Deputy Sheriff Culpepper, the negroes of this place have been greatly excited over rumors that Elijah Cheavers are the deed but had Elijah Cheavers was not dead, but had come to life and was still in the neighborbood. Cheavers was hanged in a cypress pond, two miles from the city. The negroes who are superstitious say that they have seen somebody in the pond, frequently on dark nights, answering accurately the de-scription of Cheavers, and they will not venture near there at night. Soon after the hanging occured, it was commonly reported among the negroes that Elijah Cheavers had been seen at Duke, Ga. Then there was a rumor that he was at a house in Old Nine, and that his neck was badly swollen, but he would be well in a few days. It was also rumored that Elijah Cheavers told a negro in Old Nine, three days after he was hanged, that he had been duly hanged according to law; that he had committed and he intended to kill whites and blacks as fast as he came to them, regardless of who they were, as the law could not punish him again, as he was considered dead in the eyes of the law. The negroes gave remarkable credence to these rumors. Cheavers was buried at Duke, Ga. The negroes will not go near his grave or the place where he was Proves a Wonderful Cure for a Man with Rhenmattam. Blakely, Ga., June 4.—(Special.)—Wonders never cease, and, while poor, afflicted man is destined to grope his way through this world of pain and affliction, they will ever and anon rise up in his pathway to teach him the wondrous efficacy of the simplest remedies, over which, as it were, he has long stumbled in his voin search for relief from the ills to which his flesh is heir.

for relief from the ills to which his flesh is heir.

Mr. B. M. George, of Cuba, has for a long time been tortured by the pangs of rheumatism. Without any perceptible relief, he has well nigh exhausted the whole pharmacopoeia of remedies, when, by some accidental train of thought, his mind was directed to the idea of trying the effect of pickled razors and files for his tormenting malady. Accordingly, he looked about his premises and picked up all the old files he could find, with here and there a wormout razor blade. These he carefully cleaned and immersed in strong vinegar. After a few days he began taking a small amount of the black mass, which he called razor soup, with marked improvement. He kept up this line of treatment, and, so far as the rheumatism is concerned, is today a well man.

CONTRACTORS. CONTRACTORS.

Proposals for the graduation, trestle work and masonry upon the extension of the Manchester and Augusta railroad in South Carolina, from Remini, in Clarendon county, to Denmark, in Barnwell county, a distance of 44 miles, are invited. Amount of material to be moved about 1,500,000 yards; amount of trestle to be built about 5-12 miles.

The work will be divided into sections of about 5 miles each. Bids may be made for the sections separately, or for the whole work. Bids for sections will include the trestles upon them with the exception of those at Santee river, North Edisto, South Edisto and Haif-Way swamp. The Santee river trestle will be about 14,000 lineal feet; South Edisto about 5,000 lineal feet and Haif-Way swamp about 1,000 lineal feet. For the above mentioned trestles separately which is a limit of the santee trestle two bids, one for full pile trestle, the other for frame trestle upon pile foundation. At Santee trestle three forces will be required to the pit in operation and maintained until the work is completed.

Bids for trestles will include clearing of the right of way 130 feet in width.

Bids will be opened on the 17th day of June, 1833, and contracts awarded upon accepted proposals at the office of the Wilmington N. C.

Work to be pushed with all possible dispatch, and to be completed on or before the first day of January, 1894. Plans, profiles and specifications can be seen at the above mentioned office.

The company reserves the right to decline any and all proposals. Bond will be required to the amount of 15 per cent estimated value of work contracted for.

NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA AND ST.LOU'S

Railway to Chicago in Twenty-Two Hours and Fifty-Eight Minutes.

Commencing on Monday next, June 5th, the Western and Atlantic railroad and the Nashville, Chattanoega and St. Louis rail-way will inaugurate the quickest schedules ever made between Atlanta and Chicago. President Thomas has said that he had the short line between Atlanta and Chicago, and he intends to make whatever schedules and he intends to make whater states and he appreciated their kindness by giving them the quickest and best service between Atlanta and Chicago.

The velvet vestibuled train will leave Atlanta at 10 a. m., leave Chattsnooga at 2:42 p. m., leave Nashville at 7.45 p. m., leave Evansville at 12:45 a. m. and arrive at Chicago at 8:58 a. m., making the unprecedented time of twenty-two hours and hity-eight minutes from Atlanta to Chicago. This train will be vestibuted throughout, nity-eight minutes from Atlanta to Chicago. This train will be vestibuled throughout, including baggage, mail, express, day coaches and Pullman dining car, supplied with all the delicacies of the season, will be a lending feature to this special vestibuled train to Chicago, the world's fair flyer, which formerly left Atlanta at 2 p. m., will leave at 2:15 p. m., with solid train, composed of baggage, mail and express cars, day coaches and Pullman palace sleeper.

This train runs solid from Atlanta to Louisville, and the sleeper on this train will go through from Atlanta to Chicago without change. This solid train from Atlanta to Louisville connects in the union depot at Louisville with both the great Pennsylvania line and the Monon route. Leaving Atlanta at 2:15 p. m., via this route, you will arrive at Chicago the next morning at 4:30 p. m.

The third train which the Western and Atlanta to 3:20 p. m. and arrives at Chicago the next evening at 9:40 p. m. This train runs solid from Atlanta to Nashville, and connects in the union depot at Nashville with through trains from Nashville to Chicago without change, and carries a Pullman buffet sleeping car through from Atlanta to Chicago, via Evansville, without change. The morning express will leave Atlanta at 8:00 instead of 8:20, as at present.

Mr. Charles E. Harman, general passen-

Tild p. m., making all local stops as at present.

Mr. Charles E. Harman, general passenger agent of the Western and Atlantic railroad, says that his world's fair information bureau is working admirably, and says that he is answering hundreds of letters daily, giving desired information to parties who contemplate a visit to Chicago, as to routes, rates, hotels and boarding houses. Besides the number of hotels in Chicago, of which he has a list, he has also obtained, through reliable information, the addresses of fifteen or twenty boarding houses, which he is furnishing to the patrons of the Western and Atlantic railroad upon application.

the Western and Atlantic railroad upon application.

He has issued a neat little circular giving important world's fair information, which he will send to any one upon application.

It looks now as though the railroads had determined to maintain the rates as named, and will have a war of schedules instead of a war of rates. Mr. Harman says that this is the best way to accommodate the people, by giving them quick and reliable schedules, and allowing the roads to receive a living rate out of the world's fair business.

The landsman, tourist or commercial traveler, speedily begins, and not only begins, but continues, to feel the extreme of human masery during his transit across the tempestuous Atlantic. But if, with wise prescience, he has provided himself with a supply of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, his pangs are promptly mitigated, and then cease ere the good ship again drops her anchor. This is worth knowing, and thousands of our yachtsmen, summer voyagers, tourists and business men do know it.

Let the Mercury Climb!

The Suit that will woo every breeze-for Man or Boy-is ready made and waiting for you here. Better in cut and prettier in combinations than you've ever known. We've seen to it that nothing is slighted. Warmed-over styles have no place here. We count last season's Clothing like last season's birds' nests. That's why we want to be rid of the bulk of our summer stock while the season is young, and before the bloom of freshness and newness has been rubbed off. Prices are twinkling you a fascinating welcome.

Airy and Cool.

Men's flowing-end Four-in-Hands, light and medium colors, and all the choicest designs. Every one likes to wear them. It's one of the sights of the store to see how the spacious cases filled full in the morning melt away before bell-ring at night. Filmy, zephyry, graceful and all the rage. Other sorts of Neckwear—anything you may want:

Stop where you please in the Hat department; something price-tempting is within reach. Straw, Derby or soft.

Negligee Shirts.

No one pretends to tell their full story here. No need to tell it. Think of all that's best and brightest. Let Fancy help Fact and idealize Negligee Shirt loveliness-weave, color, daintiness. Then look at our variety. Simply having the largest stock in town doesn't signify. The real point is that every Shirt is new and secured because it was wanted. All have come since the leaves started.
